Industry Works To Expand Dairy-MAP Program

Editor's Note: A group of dairy industry leaders from farm organizations, private industry firms, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, and Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences and Penn State's Extension Service is cooperating to give one voice to a common goal. This goal is to help dairy farms overcome the growing economic pressures that threaten the existence of the dairy industry as we know it in Pennsylvania.

To this end, those leaders working with the Dairy-MAP program as one method to help dairy farmers become better managers met at Penn State on Monday. The following report is a summary of the discussions at this meeting. If you have questions about the Dairy-MAP program or this effort to give a united voice to Pennsylvania's dairy industry, you may call any of the participating industry leaders, your local county agent's office, or this editor at (717) 394-3047. If we don't know the answer to your question, we'll find someone who does know the answer.

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Representatives from various farm organizations and private industry firms are working together with dairy producers and Penn State personnel to expand and strengthen a Penn State Cooperative Extension program called Dairy-MAP (Management and Profitability).

This coalition was formed at the First Forum early in June, when virtually all segments of Pennsylvania's dairy industry formed a partnership with Penn State cooperative Extension and gave voice to a common goal—to increase the profitability of Pennsylvania dairy businesses through enhanced awareness and application of management technologies. The first step toward this goal is to expand Dairy-MAP, a vehicle to provide advanced business education for more of Pennsylvania's dairy farm managers.

At an organizational meeting at University Park on October 10, the group met to begin moving the expansion process from concept to reality, including formation of an overall advisory council and various committees.

The Advisory Council brings together many different viewpoints to ensure a well-balanced representation of ideas and interests to help strengthen the Dairy-MAP Program.

The Promotion Committee is faced with the challenging task of showing a diverse dairy industry what Dairy-MAP is, how the program is being offered, and how agribusiness people can help with the expanded program. This com-

Receiving recognition for their many years of service to the Polled Herford breed are Joe and Louise Midla, Marianna, left, and Eugene and Delores Stockdale, Dayton. The Genetic Focus Standard of Productivity Polled Hereford Show at KILE was dedicated to them for their work that started in the 1950s. Now grandchildren are showing cattle. Fencing Project Volunteers Help Improve Water Quality

DONEGAL SPRINGS (Lancaster Co.) — Years ago, Tom Moore remembers how you could fish for native brown trout in Donegal Creek, near the one-room schoolhouse owned by the Donegal Presbyterian Church.

Those days could come back, he reminded those who attended an open house for visitors to the stream fencing project on the Lester Hursh dairy farm on Thursday.

Work done to install streambank fencing could very well bring back trout fishing in Donegal Creek, given time.

About 20 people, including conservation technicians from the local district and fish and game commission representatives in addition to farmers, were on hand to see how streambank fencing was effective in restoring the natural beauty and balance to the creek, while still allowing cattle grazing near the site.

Construction of the project, using the services of the Donegal Fish and Conservation Association and the Lancaster Streambank Fencing Work Group (of which Moore is coordinator), began on August 13 of this year. Eleven vol-

Penn State Extension Agents Receive National Awards

CASPER, Wyoming — Members of Penn State University's Cooperative Extension staff are among agents in the United States who received Achievement and Distinguished Service Awards at the recent annual meeting of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

Achievement awards went to James Cowden, Warren County Extension Director; and Susan Dunn, Clearfield and Jefferson Counties Extension Agent.

Those honored for Distinguished Service were Raymond Kennerknecht, Crawford County Extension Agent; Jeffrey Mizer, Columbia and Montour Counties Extension Agent; and William Shuffstall, Clearfield and Jefferson Counties Extension Director.

The awards program highlighted the annual meeting where over 2,100 Extension agents and guests convened September 25–29 to review their responsibilities as educators and attend professional improvement workshops. Cowden is responsible for the agriculture, youth and community programs in Warren County. He also conducts water quality programs in several northwestern Pennsylvania counties. A program on ground water protection reached over one thousand private well or spring owners, pesticide applicators, and school students. Nearly seventy percent of those attending the awareness programs plan to protect their water supplies now and in the future.

In the parts complex, breast items were irregularly balanced; however, excess supplies were readily available and discounted to stimulate movement. Leg quarters were in fairly good balance. DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY EXPORT CONCERNS AND A SLIGHT INCREASE IN USDA'S PROJECTED '95 ENDING STOCKS FIGURE BROUGHT WHEAT PRICES BACK DOWN AFTER A THREE-DAY UPWARD TREND. CORN AND SOYBEAN PRICES CONTINUED STRONGER, DESPITE THE INCREASED PRODUCTION ESTI- MATES. IMPROVED EXPORT INTEREST WAS A SUPPORTIVE FACTOR. WHEAT 4 TO 9 CENTS LOWER. CORN UNCHANGED TO 1 CENT HIGHER. SORGHUM 2 TO 8 CENTS HIGHER. SOY- BEANS 3 TO 8 CENTS HIGHER. REPORTS THERE ARE PROBLEMS WITH THE RUBLE HAVE CAUSED CONCERN OVER RUSSIA'S PL480 WHEAT BID. USDA'S '95 ENDING WHEAT STOCKS ESTIMATE SHOWED A SLIGHT INCREASE WEAKENED WHEAT PRICES. WHEAT SEEDING IS UNDERWAY AS CORN AND BEAN HARVEST PROGRESSING RAPIDLY. USDA'S CROP PRODUCTION REPORT FOR CORN AND SOYBEANS PROVIDED NO SURPRISE AND PRICES CONTINUED HIGHER. EXPORT DEMAND HAS IMPROVED THE PAST COUPLE OF WEEKS FOR BOTH COMMODITIES. INDICATIONS THAT CHINESE EXPORTS ARE SHARPLY LOWER ADDED LIGHT SUPPORT. INCREASES WERE LIMITED, HOWEVER, ON ACTIVE HARVEST. TODAY'S USDA CROP PRODUCTION ESTIMATE FOR OCT 1 REPORTED CORN PRODUCTION UP 4 PER CENT FROM LAST MONTH AT A RECORD HIGH 9.60 BILLION BUSHLES, 51 PERCENT ABOVE 1993 CROP. SOYBEANS WERE ALSO A FORECASTED RECORD HIGH AT 2.

46 BILLION BUSHELS, UP 6 PERCENT FROM SEPT 1 AND 32 PERCENT ABOVE 1993.

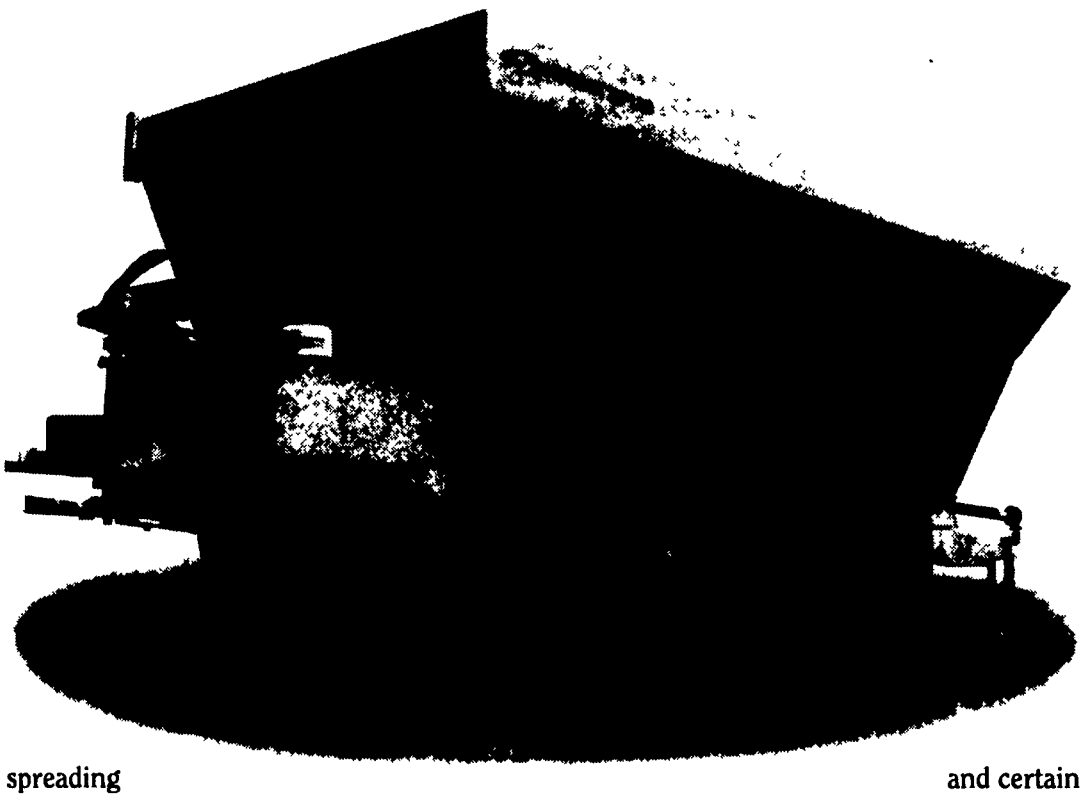
Sometimes You Need A Spreader Built Like A Tank.



When spreading stockpiled lime, for example.

The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus, for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading. We call that performance. You'll call it terrific.

We hope you compare a Stoltzfus WLS with other spreaders. It makes us look even better. Price? Sure we may be a little more. But when you end up replacing cheaper units in a few short years, what have you saved? Stoltzfus quality always pays foritself many times over.

Just how tough is a Stoltzfus WLS? Plenty tough. Call today. We'll tell you where to find the dealer nearest you, and send you free literature to inspect.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

OCTOBER 17-23, 1994

FULL HUNTER'S MOON, OCT. 19.

AT YORKTOWN

British troops surrendered to the American troops at Yorktown, Virginia, on October 19, 1781, effectively ending the American Revolution. Because many paintings show Lord Cornwallis offering his sword to General Washington, most Americans believe that's what actually happened. In fact, Washington was a spectator, and Cornwallis wasn't even there! Cornwallis was in his tent, too sick, or sick at heart, to attend the formalities So he sent his second-in-command, General O'Hara. Although O'Hara was directed to Washington, military protocol dictated that a deputy surrender to a deputy, so Washington sent O'Hara to General Benjamin Lincoln, who accepted O'Hara's sword.

A morsel of genuine history is a thing so rare as to be always valuable.

— Thomas Jefferson

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Buy pumpkins with stems attached and no cracks — they'll keep better.

EARTHWISE

Although many toxic chemicals used to treat fruits and vegetables are absorbed into them, we can reduce our chemical intake by washing off the residue that remains on the surface Use a teaspoon or two of vegetable-oil-based liquid soap in a large pan of cool water (Water alone won't do the trick) Soak food for 10 minutes then scrub with a soft brush Delicate foods like lettuce should just be swished around Rinse thoroughly in several changes of water and place in a colander to dry

HAM AND BEAN SOUP

2 cups dry great northern beans
2 1/2 quarts water
2 cups cut-up, cooked ham
1 cup chopped carrots
1 cup sliced celery
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 16-ounce can tomatoes, cut up, with juice
3/4 teaspoon oregano
salt and pepper to taste

Rinse beans and place in soup pot with water. Bring to boil and boil vigorously for 2 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand 1 hour. Add remaining ingredients and simmer, covered, for 1½ hours or until beans are done.

Makes 8 to 10 servings

OPINION

Brighten The Corner Wherever You Are

Friday, October 14, probably passed without the majority of Pennsylvanians recognizing its significance.

It was the 80th anniversary of the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania, which was founded by Flora Black in 1914.

Many of it's 3,140 membership celebrated it quietly by gathering for a traditional Farm Women's Day breakfast. But the significance of Farm Women is not the way they choose to celebrate the founding day but the way they live their lives every day of the year.

These women quietly go about making a difference in their homes, communities, and state. Their motto, "For Happiness," is rooted in the belief that happiness is attained when we give generously to others.

Each year, the membership chooses state, county, and society projects, which results in giving thousands of dollars to aid the ill, the unfortunate, and to benefit community betterment projects. Helping others is not always limited to the state. Last year Farm Women gave $11,876 to the Heifer Project International, which sends livestock to aid third-world countries.

While the society was first founded for farm women, many of its members are no longer living on their farm, but they haven't forgotten their roots. They seek to promote a love for farm and understanding of agriculture. This is upheld by encouraging students to pursue agricultural and home economic-related degrees. Last year, the state society contributed $5,000 in scholarships and most of the 16 societies gave additional scholarships.

Another prime emphasis of Farm Women is to build a home of beauty and warmth for family members.

Love for God and country continues to be a strong loyalty among the membership, who believe that these values have made America a strong country and are necessary to maintain it.

Each gathering ends by members singing the society song, "Brighten the Corner Where You Are."

It's a reminder to each one to be constantly aware to make a positive contribution wherever each one may go. It's an admonition we all should strive to fulfill.

If you missed observing Farm Women's Day this past Friday, you can still celebrate it in the way its members have been doing every day of the year for 80 years — brighten the corner where you!

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Evaluate Forage Quality

According to Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, the amount of fiber in a cow's ration, the length of forage particles, and the quality of forages fed are critical to her health and productivity.

For normal rumen function and fewer twisted stomachs, cows need to consume enough fiber. Specifically, neutral detergent fiber (NDF) intake from forages needs to be at least 1.5 percent of the cow's body weight.

For example, a 1,300-pound cow needs to consume approximately 20 pounds of forage NDF. Quality is important. For hay crop forage, aim for about 20 percent crude protein, 30 percent acid detergent fiber (ADF), and 40 percent NDF.

Too often, farmers and their advisers equate high protein to high quality. This is not always the case, especially if high protein, ensiled, hay crop forages are a major portion of the ration.

During fermentation, a lot of the protein is converted to soluble protein. This is more than the rumen may safely handle. The excess is absorbed into the blood stream and raises the blood urea nitrogen (BUN) levels to the point where it may cause reproductive problems. Also, some of the protein is eventually excreted and wasted.

It is important to also feed a highly soluble source of carbohydrate such as high moisture corn, corn silage, barley, etc. The best way to evaluate your hay crop forages is through forage testing and see how close you are to the 20-30-40 ratio. If you are not close, look at your forage harvesting program and make the necessary adjustments.

To Plan Fall Feeding

Early fall signals the time most beef cows in Pennsylvania will be at the lowest feed requirement for the year.

Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent, reminds us there may be some ways to lower feed costs and save expensive hay or stockpile pasture.

Use stalk or stubble fields to extend fall grazing. Allow about one fourth acre per cow and increase the acreage weekly. Failure to limit acreage will result in poor use of the field. Cows will take off the best feed first and leave the rest until later.

Use your worst quality hay first. You may wish to limit grazing for a few weeks and feed up the poorer quality hay. Graze older cows behind young cows with calves or newly weaned calves in a pasture rotation. This allows the younger animals to have first opportunity to eat the best grass they need for growth.

Use some food by-products. Apple pomace is a good cow feed, either fresh or ensiled. However, do not add urea to it. Potato chips and bakery wastes are good sources of energy. But the cows will need a source of fiber. Fresh vegetables are fine. But with pregnant cows, you need to watch for mold and protein levels in legumes.

To Deworm Sheep

In the humid Mid-Atlantic region, sheep need to be dewormed more often than in other parts of the country.

The ewe flock should be dewormed every other month beginning in May and ending after a hard killing frost.

Lambs on pasture and replacement ewe and ram lambs, including show stock, should be dewormed every four weeks.

A variety of dewormers are available for sheep and should be rotated to decrease the chance of resistance. Consult your veterinarian for advice on deworming products labeled for sheep.

Feather Prof s Footnote: "The key to happiness is having dreams. The key to success is making dreams come true."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SOMEONE TO WATCH OVER ME

October 16, 1994

Background Scripture:
1 Samuel 7:15 through 8:22; 12:19-25
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 47:1-9

There have been many times when I have pondered over the Lord's response to Samuel when the prophet revealed that the people had asked for a king: "Harken to the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have not rejected you, but they have rejected me from being king over them" (8:7).

Again and again I have ended up asking, why did God regard their asking for a king as a rejection of Himself? Although there are hardly any kings in the world today, much of the history of our civilization has been based upon the reigns of kings and queens, emperors and empresses. And today there are modern equivalents: president, prime ministers, governors and dictators instead of kings and queens; bureaucratic governments instead of kingdoms. The world cannot cope without someone wielding authority and leading the people.

But the situation among the tribes of Israel before they asked for a king show us as an ideal world. There is no need of government or rulers so long as people maintain a close relationship with the Lord. For many years, the only government that the tribes of Israel knew was the prophet Samuel serving as an itinerant judge to make circuits among the settlements of Bethel, Gilgal, and Mizpah and settle disputes. So long as the people remained close and responsive to God, that was the only rule they needed.

NO GOVERNMENT

We hear people today tell us that "the only good government is no government" or "the least government" or "the least government, the best government." It is obvious that we live in a very anti-government world. They become fed up with the government interfering with their daily lives. As one man told me, "If we all lived by the Golden Rule we wouldn't need congress nor a President."

But that's the rub, both in the time of Samuel and today, for, although it would be better if we were to govern ourselves, it is just not in the cards for human beings to do so. We probably could dispense with all the laws, including the Ten Commandments and there wouldn't be any need for regulatory agencies.

Yet, if we removed all this government, would people live peaceably and fairly? I think not. When we do not follow God and His purpose for the world, we need some kind of political and social structure to do for and with us what we are not able nor interested in doing for ourselves. So government—even the best of it—is the price we pay for not governing ourselves.

REJECTING GOD

So, now I think I understand what the Lord means when He says, "for they have not rejected you, but they have rejected me from being king over them." When we fail to respond to the Lord in all His goodness to us, we are in fact handing ourselves over to others to govern us.

Fortunately, our failure is not insurmountable. As Samuel told the people of Israel, "Fear not, you have done all this evil, yet do not turn away from following the Lord, but serve the Lord with all your hearts... For the Lord will not cast away His people..."

Despite our foolishness, our carelessness, our rebelliousness, there is the amazing grace of God whereby we are saved from all of the above and are granted the chance to let God reign in our hearts.

Subject: Big Dutchman Outperforms Competitors

After tabulating the results of many layer flocks nationwide, we now have positive proof that Big Dutchman systems outperform all major competing systems.

Unlike what competition has been claiming with absolutely no proof, we have all the facts to back up our statements.

Spread the word! Anyone considering a new building or remodeling an older house can be assured that Big Dutchman offers these advantages.

★ More Eggs Per Bird
★ Larger Eggs
★ Less Electrical Expense
★ Better Feed Conversion
★ Less Mortality
★ Cleaner Eggs

All these facts mean that a Big Dutchman system installed by Hershey will save money in operating expenses. The contract grower also receives a larger bonus payment!

Results are not from some small test house but are based on a blend of results from coast to coast, north to south.

DON'T WASTE YOUR MONEY!

More Eggs Per Bird And Better Feed Conversion Puts Money In Your Pocket!

Big Dutchman.

IF ITS WORTH YOUR INVESTMENT, TRUST IT TO HERSHEY

Dunn developed and delivered a Rural Safety Program for the two–county unit. Volunteers were trained to assist in teaching agricultural safety to 4-Hers, students, firefighters, ambulance staff, farmers and other rural residents. Susan and the volunteers reached youth and adults using workshops, classroom instruction, newsletters, newspaper, exhibits and demonstrations. One young man credits the program with saving his life. Susan also conducts educational programs for production agriculture.

Kennerknecht has been a member of the Extension staff for 24 years. He provides leadership for a 1,457 member 4-H/Youth program. Ray's major goal is to develop leadership in 4-H members and leaders. His 4-H members and leaders participate in a variety of leadership educational opportunities he makes available. His 4-H committees provide opportunities for leaders and members to use their leadership to improve the program while it grows. Ray also coordinates 20 Master Gardeners and conducts agricultural safety programs.

Mizer has been a member of the Extension staff for 19 years. He conducts a comprehensive extension program for commercial horticulture producers. Several hundred vegetable growers benefit from variety field trials and integrated pest management programs Jeff conducts. Commercial tree fruit producers receive up to date information through educational meetings and a monthly newsletter. Jeff's pesticide education program, focusing on pesticide storage, transportation, and spill clean-up reached over 700 commercial and private applicators. He also conducts programs for lawn care professionals, nursery men, and commercial greenhouse operators.

Shuffstall has been a member of the Extension staff for 14 years. He conducts Community Development programs and serves as CED for the Clearfield/Jefferson Unit. Over 300 individuals participated in a 15–hour leadership education program developed by Shuffstall. Programs on solid waste issues over a three–year period reached over 600 individuals. Bill was instrumental in establishing business retention and expansion programs in five communities.

Under his leadership, 14 staff in the bi-county unit work cooperatively to conduct a comprehensive extension program.

Dairy-MAP Program

mittee will use various aspects of the media—including popular press articles, posters, and an informational video—to show the dairy industry what Dairy-MAP is all about. Local meetings will be held across the state for anyone in the agribusiness community interested in learning more about the program.

The Finance Committee presented proposed budgets and plans to acquire additional revenue to fund this expanded effort. To date, fewer than 400 individuals have had the opportunity to participate tn the Dairy-MAP Program, since both capital and human resources were limited in the pilot program.

The Curriculum Committee reviewed current materials and discussed future needs. Participation of dairy producers, industry field people, and educators will help stimulate discussion about present and future educational needs.

Finally, the Facilitatory Committee discussed how agribusiness personnel would be integrated with Penn State personnel to form teaching teams..

In Dairy-MAP's core course, Managing For Success, teams of facilitators help dairy producers look into the mirror, think about who they are, think about the future dairy industry, decide what the future holds for their business, and develop a plan for their own individual success. One of the participants in this October 10 meeting called Dairy-MAP a "visionary program," and although each of the meeting participants may have had a slightly different vision for the future of the dairy industry in Pennsylvania, it is clear that the first collective step toward that vision is the expansion of Dairy-MAP.

Purafire's fuel-saving "hot surface" igniter is protected by a porcelain casing for long life.

Well built, well protected

Purafire heaters are constructed of tough, rust-resistant galvanized steel for long life and durability. The motor assembly, blower, gas valve, control panel and other components are protected from moisture, dirt and dust. Ridge Makes Campaign Appearance At KILE

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Rep. Tom Ridge, Republican candidate for state governor, rode in with the horses — literally — last Saturday at the Keystone International Livestock Expo (KILE) at the Farm Show Complex.

Riding a 2-horse hitch delivery wagon with strong Percherons at harness, Ridge brought his campaign home to agriculture during the Paso Fino Show in the large arena.

Governor candidate Tom Ridge, center, hammered home his strong agricultural campaign message during the visit to KILE last Saturday. On hand to welcome him to the KILE festivities was Dennis Grumbine, chairman of KILE and chairman of the Farmers For Ridge campaign, right, and Beverly Gruber, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Livestock Association. Photo by Andy Andrews

Ridge also stopped in to field reporter's questions before appearing before the Sheep Lead Line audience in the afternoon.

At the Lead Line, Ridge spoke about the importance of "strengthening the Pennsylvania ag industry, a high priority into the 20th century" with his proposed administration. He called agriculture "Pennsylvania's greatest resource."

On hand to welcome him to the KILE festivities was Dennis Grumbine, chairman of KILE and chairman of the Farmers For Ridge campaign, and Beverly Gruber, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Livestock Association.

Ridge hammered home his strong agricultural campaign message during the visit to KILE.

In the wagon tour, Ridge spoke to Lancaster Farming about his proposed plans to restore the direction and intent of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. He said he wants a more "user-friendly" department of agriculture and to build Pennsylvania ag exports.

Ridge recognized the problem farm families face in allowing subsequent generations to take over the farm in these struggling times. Ridge said he wants to provide farmers with less government intervention, fewer taxes, and to instill a more "common sense" approach to how farmers are treated under his administration.

"Challenge Of The Breeds" Highlights Horse Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — An evening of horse competition delighted the crowd at the Challenge of the Breeds Show, a highlight of the 38th annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE). Held last week at the State Farm Show Complex. KILE is a premier showcase for the nation's top beef cattle, swine, sheep and horses.

The Challenge of the Breeds involves representatives of eight invited horse breeds showing before a judge in six events: English Pleasure, Hunter Hack, Pleasure Driving, Western Pleasure, Western Riding, and an exciting Barrel Race.

Thirteen horses competed to become "Sovereign Champion". After tabulating the results of the entries in each event, Watch Me Winsome, a 9 year old Quarter Horse ridden by owner Susan Yohn of Grantville, emerged as the winner. Watch Me Winsome had won four of the six events: Hunter Hack, Pleasure Driving, Western Pleasure, and Western Riding.

"(Watch Me Winsome) will retire and become a brood mare," Yohn said after being awarded the championship banner. "Quarter Horses are an excellent all-around type of animal...a good family horse."

The "Sovereign Champion" in the Challenge of the Breeds at KILE was owned by Susan Yohn of Grandville. Shown in the photo with owner and friends is Watch Me Windsome, the champion quarter horse. On the road to victory, Windsome worn four of the six events in the competition.

Lebanon Team Wins KILE Livestock Contest

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A Lebanon County 4-H team representing Pennsylvania continued its winning streak by taking the top team title at the Junior Livestock Judging Contest held during the Keystone International Livestock Exposition, held Oct. 5-10 at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

The Lebanon County 4-H team, comprised of members Dan and Wendy Atkins, Benjamin Bow Jr., and Jon Harnish, had won the state 4-H team title earlier this year and qualified for a trip to the North American Livestock Exposition, held November in Louisville, Kentucky. As well did the other state 4-H teams.

This week, the team was among 11 collegiate and 12 junior teams from Florida to Illinois to New York that tested their skills in judging beef cattle, sheep and swine.

The Lebanon County team's consistency brought them the top team prize — they had earned a third place in beef cattle and swine judging, and for giving oral reasons; they earned fourth place in sheep judging.

Dan Atkins set the pace for his team, by earning a third place in oral reasons, a fourth in swine judging, a 10th in beef cattle judging, and a third individual overall placing. He earned third overall after winning a tie breaking contest against Willi Morris, of Virginia FFA.

Danny's sister Wendy was seventh highest scoring individual overall, with a sixth placing in sheep judging, and 12th place finishes in beef cattle and swine judging, and oral reasons.

The team was coached by Lori Voight, Ralph and Melanie Horchler, and Ken Winebark, county extension agent.

The top individual overall in the junior division was Chris Seymour, of Maryland. The 4-Hers was first place individual for oral reasons, swine and sheep judging. He placed seventh judging beef cattle.

At the collegiate level, a team from the University of Illinois was top team, with a first place in beef cattle and sheep judging, a third in oral reasons and a fourth in swine judging. Teammember Mark Hoge was the top collegiate individual overall.

The Pennsylvania 4-H team edged out the team from Ohio by two points. The third place team from Maryland totalled 14 fewer points than the Lebanon team.

In addition to the University of Illinois, collegiate teams represented The Ohio State University, Michigan State University, Illinois State University, Auburn University, Penn State University, North Carolina State University, Tennessee, West Virginia, Delaware Valley College, and University of Florida.

In addition to the Pennsylvania and Maryland 4-H teams, others competing were from Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Virginia, Georgia, North Carolina, and New York. FFA teams were from Indiana, Virginia, and Ohio.

Youth Compete At Invitational Judging Contest

HARRISBURG, (Dauphin Co.) — Thirty-seven teams from around the country participated in the 26th annual Invitational Youth Dairy Judging contest, held last week at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

The competition provides top-notch dairy youth an opportunity to match their judging skills against other students in a national forum.

In the collegiate division, the team from Virginia Tech placed first with a total score of 2,116 points. Virginia Tech also had the two high scoring individuals for total reasons as well as the two high individuals for all breeds.

Team members Angie Coburn and Kyle Thygesen earned 235 and 234 points, respectively, in the total reasons, and then reversed their placing for scores on all breeds.

Seth Johnson and Mark Grove were also members of the winning collegiate team, who took $225 and the Cuthbert Narin Rotating Trophy for their efforts.

The Cornell University team placed second with 2,101 points, and the team from Wisconsin at Madison took third place with 2,051 points.

Sixteen states were represented in the 4-H division of the contest, with the Florida team taking the win, along with $175 and the Joe S. Taylor Rotating Plaque.

Their score of 1,866 was only four points more than the second place finisher, Indiana 4-H. The Wisconsin 4-H team placed third and the Pennsylvania 4-H team captured fourth place.

Florida's Michelle Thomas led both of the individual ranks for total reasons and all breeds. Other winning team members included Kelley Hunziker, Melissa Styfrett and Sean Thien.

In the third division, the Minnesota FFA was the winner by one point over Georgia's FFA team from Putnam County. Minnesota scored 1,572, Georgia scored 1,571 and rounding out the top three was the Indiana FFA team with 1,557 points.

Minnesota's Tracy Mickelson was the high scoring individual for total reasons, while New York's Mike Stebbins claimed the individual victory for all breeds.

The other winning Minnesota team members included Lori Mickelson, Trista Fingerson and Jenny Dornink. They took home $175 and th Harold McCulloch Rotating Plaque.

The contest was held in conjunction with the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, one of the nation's premier dairy shows.

Contestants had to judge 10 classes of dairy cattle at the all-American and present oral reasons for their selections. The teams received their awards at a banquet sponsored by Agway, Atlantic Breeders Cooperative and Monsanto.

The next Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging contest is scheduled for Sept. 25, 1995.

Fencing Project Volunteers

unteers from the association, the Donegal Chapter of Trout Unlimited, the conservation district, and a host of other agency representatives began digging out a streambed crossing bank and installing fencing.

Mark Metzler, conservation district erosion and sedimentation technician, said that a biotech index was done on the water and the fish and insect life which it contained. The water quality was generally poor, as indicated by the presence of "chubs," small, minnow-like, hardy fish that can survive water temperatures and conditions that can kill trout. Fish in evidence included sculpin, measuring only about 3 inches. The team was unable to find any trout, and the only insects in evidence were the caddis fly, larvae, and leeches.

(Some trout, brown and rainbow, are stocked further downstream. The Donegal Springs headwaters begin slightly east of the farm, which lead into the Donegal Creek. The creek in turn flows into Chickies Creek and then into the Susquehanna River.)

Mark Metzler, conservation district erosion and sedimentation technician, said that a biotech index was done on the water and the fish and insect life which it contained. According to Metzler, in August, work began on the crossing, using 40 tons of stream ford riprap and 30 tons of 2B rock. The crossing measures 30 feet long and 35 feet wide.

Construction of the streambank fencing project, using the services of the Donegal Fish and Conservation Association and the Lancaster Streambank Fencing Work Group, began on August 13 of this year. Eleven volunteers from the association, the Donegal Chapter of Trout Unlimited, the conservation district, and a host of other agency representatives began digging out a streambed crossing bank and installing fencing. Those at the open house on Thursday included, from left, Tom Moore, group coordinator; Ken DePoe, founding of the Donegal Chapter of Trout Unlimited; Travis Martin, Lancaster conservation technician; Mark Metzler, conservation technician; and Don Robinson, district administrator. Photo by Andy Andrews

The limestone stream meanders through the Hursh farm valley. The cows, normally grazed near the stream, caused erosion in years past.

Some time back, the work group (they call themselves the Stream Team), with the assistance of the Donegal fish association, approached Hursh with the proposal to install fencing and a stream crossing. Hursh agreed, and construction began.

According to Metzler, in August, work began on the crossing, using 40 tons of stream ford riprap and 30 tons of 2B rock. The crossing measures 30 feet long and 35 feet wide.

All the material was paid for in a combination of methods. The lumber material, including 8-foot by 8-inch posts and 2 x 4s, was paid for through the Chesapeake Bay program at a cost of $450. The solar-powered generator was donated at a cost of $270. The single-strand wire was also donated at a cost of $25. The ballast riprap cost $448 (paid for by the bay program). The 2B stone was donated. The backhoe and operator time (approximately $250), in addition to the skid-steer and labor time (approximately $100), were also donated.

Costs for the project totals about $1,543 (not including most labor).

Dilner Receives Doran Education Award

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Fred Dilner, retired Agricultural Education teacher and Young Farmer Advisor in the Shippensburg School District was honored with the Hal F. Doran Cooperative Business Education Award at the Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives in State College this week. The award recognizes individuals who demonstrate exceptional dedication and leadership in furthering the understanding and importance of cooperatives in the American business enterprise system. The award, consisting of cash and a trophy was presented at Penn State's Scanticon.

Dilner was chosen from a field of candidates nominated by his peers. Nominees have been actively involved in Cooperative Business Education Programs and activities. Selection was made by members of the Penn State University/Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives Joint Education Committee.

The award, sponsored by the Penn State Cooperative Business Education and Research Program, is made possible by the Hal F. Doran endowment fund. The fund was started in 1991 in honor of Hal's many years of service to the Coop Program. Contributions may still be made through the Penn State Cooperative Education Program.

Dilner is an acknowledged leader and supporter of a strong education effort for agriculture and rural Pennsylvania. He is held in high esteem by his many friends and colleagues in education. He began his teaching career at Conneaut Valley in Crawford County and moved from there to Shippensburg, where he was the teacher of Agriculture and young farmer instructor for 41 years. He is very interested in restoration and preservation, having initiated, then chaired Farmland Preservation for Cumberland County and was later appointed to the Cumberland County Conservation and Open Space Task Force.

Dilner holds a M.S. degree from Penn State. He and his wife Rose, have been active in Community service in the Shippensburg area for many years. He received community service awards from both the Chamber of Commerce and the Jaycees. In 1992 he received the Cumberland County Extension Alvin Raudabaugh Award for Outstanding Leadership and Service to Cumberland County.

Fred edited a workbook on cooperative basics called "The Young Farmer and His Cooperative." He and Rose were co-hosts of the Young Cooperative Leaders Conference for sixteen years. Dilner received the Pennsylvania Association of Farm Cooperatives (PAFC) Master Educator Award in 1976 and Outstanding Young Farmer Advisor Award in 1982. He is on the advisory committee to Cumberland Valley Cooperative and York Farm Credit A.C.A. Among his many leadership roles are past president of Chamber of Commerce, treasurer of Shippensburg Fair, chairman of the local Farm-City Week observance, and director of the local farmers market. He is a member of several professional educator associations.

He is active in the Soil Conservation District where he is past president of the Cumberland County District, received the 1970 PA Conservationist of the Year Award, and 1977 Conservation Educator of the Year Award.

The Dilners have three children and two grandchildren. One of their most cherished accomplishments is a 1754 house which they have restored and is listed in the National Historic Registry.

Fred and Rose live at "Blythstead" on Means Hollow Road near Shippensburg. The Dilners are active members of Christ United Methodist Church where Fred is a Sunday school teacher and chairmen of the finance committee. Simmental Capital Futurity Winners Named HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Winners in the Simmental Capital Futurity Contest took home prize money at the 38th Annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE). Held at the State Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg from October 5–10, KILE has established itself as a premier showcase for the nation's top livestock breeders.

Participants in the Simmental Capital Futurity Contest nominate their farms by January 1, and nominate calves by May 1 for showing in October at KILE. Three judges evaluate the animals using a point system to determine winners.

Grand Champion Senior Bull was won by Shoemaker's Dream Jet, owned by William Shoemaker of Harrison Township, Bedford County. The bull tops 1610 pounds at 18 months, having been born on March 25, 1993. "It's genetically leaner meat," Mr. Shoemaker said.

Lee and Linda Snyder of Franklin, Venango County exhibited the Grand Champion Bull in the Junior Division and Reserve Champion Heifer in the Senior Division.

The Snyders started the Capital Futurity Contest and have managed it since it began with the first show in 1990. With only eight years in the business, the Snyders have the distinction of showing the only Simmental Supreme Champion in the Pennsylvania State Farm Show's Beef Cattle Division.

Ken and Jeanne White of Groton, New York won the Champion Senior Heifer Class with Simme Valley Chanelle, born in February of 1993. Chanelle was also the Reserve Champion Calf at last year's Capital Futurity Contest at KILE.

John Lenzner of Sewickley, Allegheny County owns Harvest Lenzner Princess, the Grand Champion in the Junior Heifer Class. He is also part owner of Harvest Fancy, International Champion at the American Royal Show in Kansas City in 1993. He began purchasing cows in January, 1994.

Bob and Alice McQuiston of Stoneboro, Mercer County exhibited Harvest Sophie, the winner in the Senior yearling Heifer Class. The McQuistons show out of the 200-acre Havenwoods Farm.

Jerry and Ginger Woolcock of Orangeville, Columbia County exhibited winners in the Junior Division. WF Rock Solid, born in February of 1994, was Reserve Champion Bull and WF Snow White Vision, born in January of 1994, won Reserve Champion Heifer.

The Simmental Capital Futurity Contest has paid out in excess of $35,000 in prize money over the past 4 years. In 1995, the contest will be open to Simmental breeders nationwide. Interested breeders should contact Lee or Linda Snyder at (814) 374-4684 for more information about the contest and/or to nominate farms into the 1995 futurity.

The champion pen of feeder steers at KILE was owned by Bob Sherwood, Maxwelton, WV. In the photo are Shirwood, Ralph Warren, Jr, Bill Sherwood, and judge Jim Hough.

Fencing Project Volunteers

The fencing, a combination of wood post and fiberglass, runs 800 feet each side of the stream.

One of the big challenges faced after a streambank fencing project is installed is maintenance. The maintenance will be provided by the Donegal Fish And Conservation Association.

In addition, the fish association has agreed to plant trees and streambank plants to help enhance the water quality and improve the aquatic habitat.

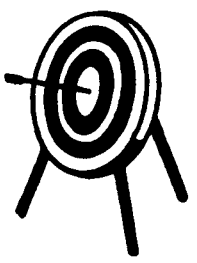
Tests will be undertaken next year to gauge water quality improvements, according to Metzler. Metzler said that, over time, insects that are pollution-intolerant, such as mayflies and stoneflies, could possibly return to the creek.

According to Johan Berger, nutrient management specialist with the Department of Environmental Resources (DER) Bureau of Land and Water Conservation, farmers can sign up to install a fencing system free of charge. The DER system pays entirely for fencing, for one stream crossing, for the solar generator, permits, and everything except maintenance. The farmer, under the DER program, must agree to maintain the fencing — to keep it free of vegetation.

Those who are interested in the free streambank fencing program from DER should contact their local conservation district office. In Lancaster, call the district at (717) 299-5361.

The fencing project showed that water that once was "turned to chocolate" is now "clear as gin," said Moore. "We're polluting our water. It seems like nobody cares anymore. It's a project whose time has come."

YOUR PROFITABILITY IS THE MARK



SCHNUPP'S GRAIN ROASTING IS RIGHT ON TARGET!

More than 20 years of experience research and development in our manufacturing plant, and at farming operations around the world.

- The latest technology for safe, clean and easy roasting
- Uniform treatment of your grain.
- Convenient steeping process
- Accurate, consistent bypass levels

THE BEST NEVER RESTS!

Research and development is still the best way to know the truth about grain roasting.

That's why we base our facts on experiences with real animals who proved to be more profitable when they were fed roasted grain.

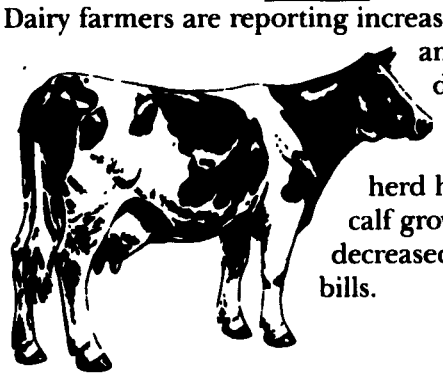
So let's keep going with the best - the facts.

FACT

When your soybeans, corn or other grains pass through the open flame in our roaster, they are given a flavor that even the most discriminating animals will enjoy.

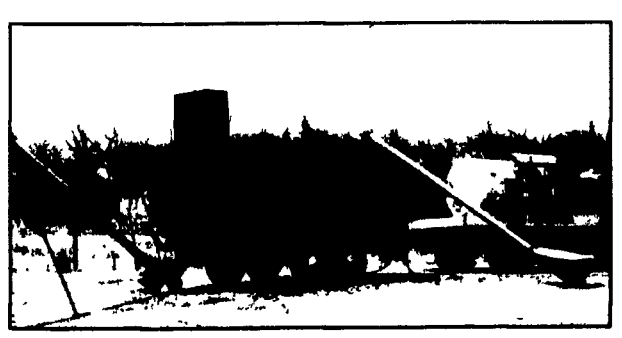
FACT

Dairy farmers are reporting increased butterfat and milk production with less feed; improved herd health; faster calf growth; and decreased veterinary bills.



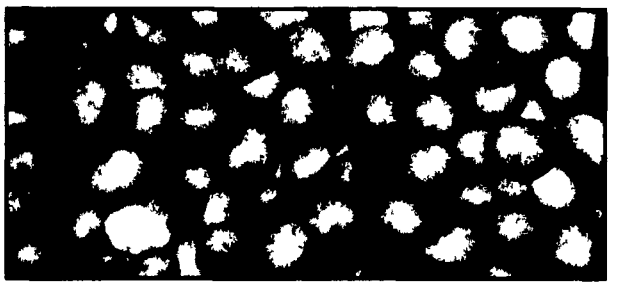
FACT

Hog farmers are reporting more healthier piglets per sow; faster weight gain; better yield and grade; and a reduction of health problems and feed refusal.



FACT

The oil and lecithin of your whole beans are retained to give you more total digestible nutrients than soybean meal.

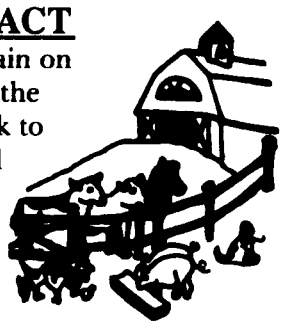


FACT

Toxic enzymes are removed; molds are destroyed; T.D.N. is increased; and starches are turned into sugar for energy.

FACT

When we roast your grain on your farm, you control the shrinkage. We give back to you what you want – all of it.



FACT

We can store your roasted grain, and then have it ground, rolled, flaked or crimped to meet your feed ration needs.

NEW ALLIANCE™ FORAGE UNLOADER

Alliance Unloader Control Panel

After start up:

1. Turn automatic switch to "ON"
2. Push "FORWARD" unloader control to start operation
3. Turn automatic switch to "SHUT DOWN" to end operation

Consistent Delivery...

Arm Advance Sentry™ Electro-Mechanical Actuator

The Arm Advance Sentry™ arm control automatically monitors the length of time the cutter chain arm advances into the forage material. It also automatically cycles the time of material clean out. This advance-hold-advance-hold sequence results in more consistent delivery; less chance of bog down or reduced speed because of too much arm force; and more consistent loading of the motor. Only minor adjustments are required after initial dealer set-up – even as the forage material changes.

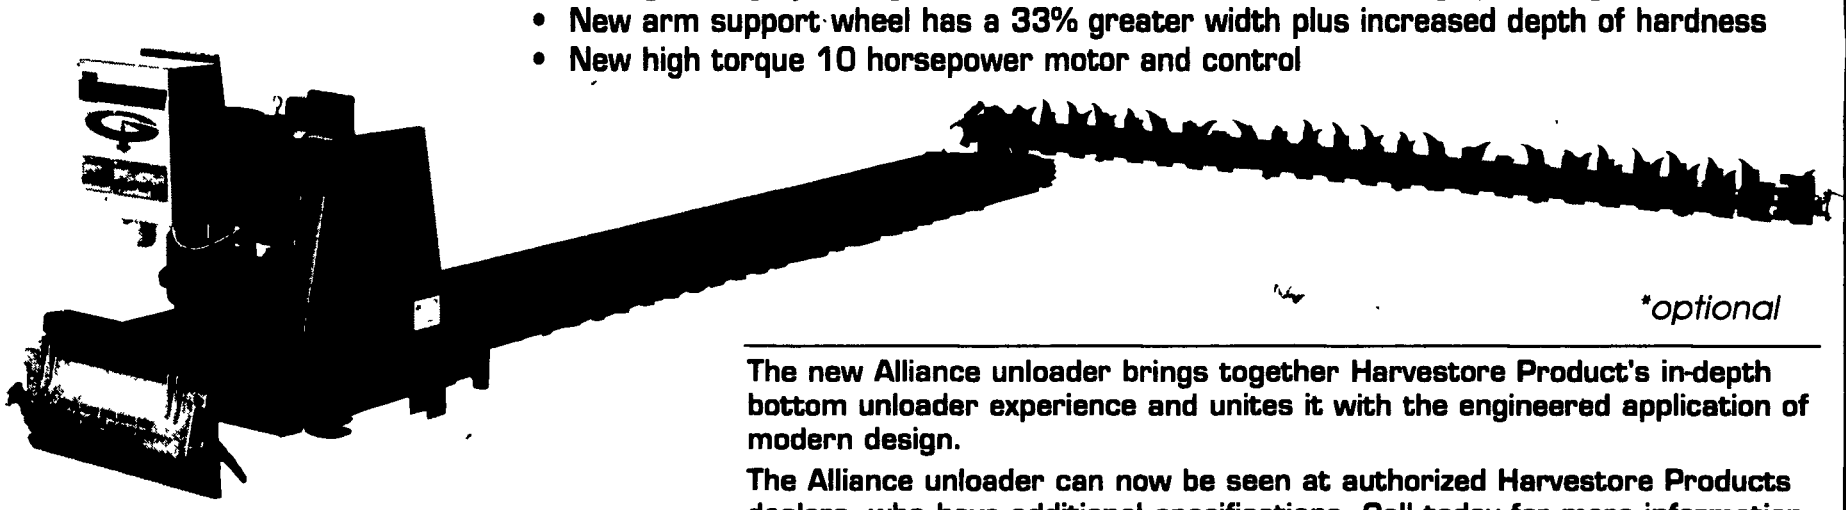
Built-In Chain Oiling...

Alliance Hydra Force™ H.P. Oil Unit

Built in to the Alliance unloader are spray nozzles with the ability to force oil onto the cutter and conveyor chains when used with the Hydra-Force™ H.P. oil spray unit*. This mobile unit uses a high pressure pump design to force lubrication through the system. When used regularly, oil then penetrates through the forage material to effectively reach the top of the chain, underneath the side bars, and between pins and bushings.

Plus...Uncomplicated Operation and Maintenance Features

- New flared nose trough* for increased discharge capacity of the conveyor chain
- New backbone design features built-in floor supports and backbone wear strips
- New greasing system greases center post shafts and bearings plus all gears
- New arm support wheel has a 33% greater width plus increased depth of hardness
- New high torque 10 horsepower motor and control



Alliance™ Forage Unloader

*optional

The new Alliance unloader brings together Harvestore Product's in-depth bottom unloader experience and unites it with the engineered application of modern design.

The Alliance unloader can now be seen at authorized Harvestore Products dealers, who have additional specifications. Call today for more information.

AMINOTEK®

HERE'S WHAT THEY'RE SAYING

Bedford Dairy Herd Increases 14 lbs. of Milk on AminoTek... Through Summer Heat Wave!!!

The Grubb's were excited when their herd responded to AminoTek with a 17 lb. milk increase this spring. But when their herd responded with another 14 lb. increase when they started to feed an AminoTek based top dress...and during the hottest June on record, they couldn't believe it.

On their July 6 DHIA test, they had 21 of their 38 cows milking over 70 lbs.. Six were over 110 lbs., three over 120 lbs. and one was over 130 lbs..

Ray Grubb and his herdsman, Wendell Guyer, say that "The Master Mix AminoTek feed program has given us a great economical answer to some problems we were having. We have seen a terrific response in milk production, along with improved breeding and overall herd health.

We also appreciate the thorough service we get from Gene Barefoot, our Master Mix District Sales Manager for Bedford and Blair Counties. He works very close with us and we're really pleased."

Milk To Pay The Bills, Embryos To Make The Money

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

BROTHERTON (Somerset Co.) — Last January Joyce Ringler bought her dad's 44 Holstein cows and went into the dairy. business for herself. But persuading Jim Ringler that his eldest offspring was the best buyer for the herd was challenge enough for Joyce. They debated the issue about a year.

Joyce was in charge of milking the cows anyway because her dad much preferred crop farming to being with the cows. He markets barley, oats, hay and 110 acres of potatoes that later become potato chips.

An earlier bout with a serious illness had contributed to his lack of interest in the cows, Joyce said. That's why he and Bonnie, Joyce's mother, wanted to sell the cows.

Not only did Joyce, a licensed animal health technician with an associate's degree, need a home for her own few registered cows, she also dreamed of building an embryo transfer business in addition to selling milk. The idea had sprung from her experiences as a cow breeder and a seller of semen which she had done for seven years, between college days and returning to milk cows for her dad.

When she couldn't talk her parents out of selling, Joyce decided she'd have to buy the cows herself if she didn't want to sacrifice the small start in embryos that she had already achieved.

Jim and Bonnie didn't want her to venture into it, but eventually, whether they felt coerced by Joyce or just plain tired of debating, they decided to let her buy the cows. And then they migrated to sunny Florida for a long vacation.

The proverbial roof caved in for Joyce. The cows got acidosis. She says they got sore feet and were very sick. The cause was mold. It had formed in the corn silage and haylage stored in the big silos.

"Moldy feed isn't good for a cow," she stated, "but you don't rely a hundred percent on corn silage, you dilute it with other kinds of feed.

"I think the cows were borderline stress for a long time," she said. "They were milking their hearts out."

"The cows were milking 70 pounds per cow per day in December and they've never dropped below 64 pounds through this ordeal," Joyce said, adding that too much acid in the rumin had caused them to have ulcers.

Two cows died, she said. Another had to be gotten rid of. "Since I started, " say Joyce, with an air of resigned acceptance, "I've lost seven, but one wasn't mold related."

At the time,. Somerset County was feeling the full force of an old-time winter and Joyce, who has an apartment in a nearby town, stayed at the bicentennial homeplace where she represents the ninth generation of Ringler descendants.

Her mom says Joyce had an advantage by staying there.

But the experience of losing cows after just buying them had the progressive dairy woman seriously considering other options. "I had three opportunities to sell the cows and the third time, I gave it serious thought," she admits.

Now, she says there's no more debate. She has hired a new nutritionist and completely changed the cows' feeding program, and bought another calf at the county sale. Her cows are coming back and Joyce expects better days.

She now says, "I'm getting in deeper and deeper and deeper," alluding to frozen embryos flushed out of a cow last summer when she was in heat.

"I have a lot of promising young stock I'm working on for merchandising purposes," said Joyce.

"To Dad, merchandising is a waste of time, but I'm going to prove to him that it isn't," she added, doggedly.

"I'm out to prove to dad that milking money will pay the bills, but the good money will come from embryos."

She sites an example. "I sold one at a sale that brought $6100 last year." She says another young heifer that brought $3600 went to Illinois.

Joyce says a good cow can be started at three years old such as her own "Sable," a three year old with an excellent pedigree, from a good cow family. Three of Sable's brothers are in stud service, according to Joyce, who already has embryos from the female.

"I've always had an interest in registered cows," Joyce said, "but my interest really grew when I was breeding cows."

Those were the days when she was constantly covering miles in Somerset, Westmoreland, and Fayette counties. "I gave up the breeding of cows because it was to much," she said. "I was up at five a.m. and often not in bed until (the next) midnight."

Two years have since passed and though she's still a late nighter, Joyce says she feels better now.

One of her registered cows is Ridge N-Valley Bell Nina, ten years. Her record reads 4-03, 365, 31,751m, 1,119f and 998p; and 5-11, 365, 32,668m, 1,173f and 989p.

The rolling herd average is 22,108 milk, 812f or 3.7 percent of fat, protein 3.3 percent or 725p, according to Joyce's official reports.

Joyce says right now she's building records with her best animals. It's crucial to having her name recognized in the business. That's why, when the young heifer went to Illinois, she had reason to be elated.

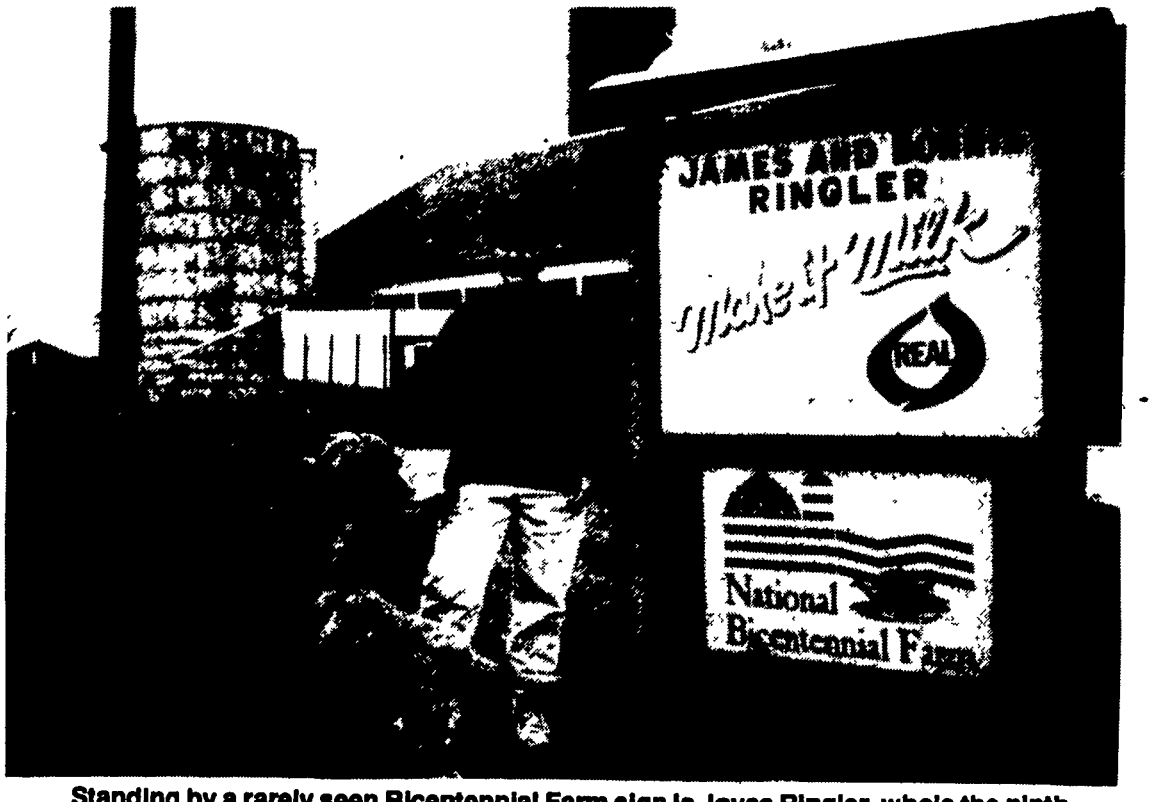
With her qualifications, Joyce says it's the next best thing to being a veterinarian. She says it's like being a vet's nurse.

"There are cows out there (the barn) that are my buddies," Joyce says, grinning. "They're not stupid. They act stupid, but they aren't stupid. They're my kids,' she laughed and proceeded to reveal some of the luxury fare she occasionally shares with them. Things like doughnuts or banana cake—whatever is available.

"They're spoiled," was her unabashed confession.

Joyce, a member of the Somerset County Holstein Club, helps to organize the annual Black and white Show. Her dad is a handy consultant, she says, the kind who doesn't volunteer an answer before the question has been asked.

Joyce has two brothers and one sister.



Standing by a rarely seen Bicentennial Farm sign is Joyce Ringler, who's the ninth Ringler generation on the land. Joyce brought her dad's 44 cows last January and plans to build a reputation in the embryo business.

Joyce Ringler stands with Sable, a 3-year-old cow from a good cow family and with an excellent pedigree. Ringler said she already has embryos out of Sable for embryo transfer purposes.

Consuming Thoughts

Fay Strickler

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

It's cider time! Although it's generally available year round, October seems to be the month when people really get a craving for sweet apple cider. Did you know that by law cider and apple juice are exactly the same? It's true. Basically cider is uncooked juice squeezed from fresh apples.

The best cider is made from a variety of apples which range from sweet to tart. The blending gives it a more desirable flavor.

To make cider or apple juice...the apples are first washed, trimmed and then ground. The pulp is placed in trays where it's wrapped in press cloths and then gradually squeezed by the cider press. The juice that is squeezed from the pulp is then channeled into settling tanks where sediment is removed.

Some cider is strained so it ends up being a clear amber liquid, some is cloudy because of the fine bits of apple pulp that are allowed to remain in the juice.

It you pick up a jug marked "fresh" or "country" cider, it is probably being sold fresh from the press without any preservatives added. That means it will not keep for very long. Maybe ten days to two weeks at best.

Cider that has preservatives added will last longer, perhaps up to a month under refrigeration. It will be labeled if it has preservatives added.

Generally if cider is pasteurized and then sealed in a sterilized can, it is sold in the grocery stores as apple juice, but if it's in a plastic jug it will be called cider and can be found in the produce department.

Now is also the ideal time to purchase apples. They are a nutritious snack to give as a treat for the ghosts or goblins who may visit your home of Halloween. Here's a few storage tips which will be helpful in keeping this lunch box favorite in top quality condition.

• Unrefrigerated ripened apples will retain their quality for about 1 week.

• Unripe apples can be quickly ripened at home by storing them in a partly sealed bag at room temperature.

• Ripened apples stored in the humidifier compartment of the refrigerator (35-40°F), in an unsealed plastic bag or in a film-wrapped tray, may retain their quality for 1 month.

• Bruised apples do not store as long and should be used first.

• Apples stored below 29°F will freeze. Freezing causes the apples to become mushy and discolored, greatly reducing their quality.

• Storing apples in a partly sealed plastic bag helps reduce the odors apples can pick up from your refrigerator.

• Apples are a very versatile fruit. They can be used in pies, muffins, cakes, and salads or just eaten from your hand.

• Peeled and or cored apples brown quickly. To prevent this, soak apples 5 minutes in 1 quart of water with 3 tablespoons of bottled lemon juice and 2 crushed 500-mg vitamin C tablets. The flavor will not be affected, and the flesh will retain its color for about 3 hours at room temperature.

• For freezing and canning directions, call your local county extension agent and ask for the "Let's Preserve Apples" fact sheets or send a stamped self-address letter sized envelope to: Let's Preserve Apples, Berks County Cooperative Extension, Berks County Ag Center, PO Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533-0520.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

"Do you realize," I said, admitting a sobering thought to The Farmer, "that we're the oldest people here?"

Not that there were many people around to begin with.

Towering around us were thick stands of classic, Pennsylvania hardwood forest. Rocky walls climbed steeply from the streambed draining an increasingly narrow ravine. A well-worn trail led the way through the seemingly-endless stretch of creekside hiking, occasionally crossing the water's sometimes turbulent, sometimes placid stretches. High overhead, blue skies framed the far-away tops of the trees and fingers of bright sunshine poked through the canopy of green.

What a wild, beautiful and peaceful setting. In an hour of hiking, we'd seen less than a dozen fellow humans. And they all appeared to be under about 22 years of age.

But where were the waterfalls we'd heard about? After gentle, uphill, climbing at a steady pace on this trail for what was beginning to seem like forever, frankly, I was getting impatient. Sure, this medium-sized stream had three and four-foot cascades tumbling over rocks, but, gosh, there must be more than this to warrant the raves we'd heard.

Suddenly, we rounded a bend and were given a choice, two forks to the trail, splitting off in a "Y." One paralleled the stream we'd been enjoying, the other took a steep climb along a slightly smaller one.

And a wooden sign-map showed that along the loop formed by the split trails were the natural attractions of this isolated mountain preserve: more than twenty waterfalls ranging from less than 20 feet of drop to the highest—nearly 100 feet. There were also warnings about slippery trails, steep dropoffs and extreme danger posed by icy conditions.

On that May afternoon, there was no ice; and early, dry conditions had rendered the streamflow lower than usual for the season. Still, the rugged climb along increasingly steep ravine sides was exhilarating and challenging, laced with steps sometimes cut into the rock and wet spots where small springs oozed across the narrow cliffside path.

Nothing we'd ever read or heard prepared us for the awesome, rugged beauty of the Glens Natural Area, a national natural landmark. The few-mile loop along the series of waterfalls that drop hundreds of feet down these mountains took less time to hike than the lengthy walk in from the lower parking area. Each waterfall was beautiful, some more majestic than others; the highest one was breathtaking. Especially from the edge of the trail along the top. Looking down.

On the border of Sullivan and Luzerne counties, Glens Natural Area is part of Ricketts Glen State Park, a secluded preserve in a heavily-forested mountain area. Though it has lakes and camping, the weekday we hiked there few people seemed to know it existed—the very sort of place we seek out on those limited times we can sneak away from the farm.

This pristine, well-hidden glen of waterfalls is accessible only by foot—preferably clad in sturdy hiking shoes or solid sneakers. We trekked up, down and around some eight miles of mountain that afternoon in under four hours, learning midway that the park's upper entrance is much closer to the waterfalls trail. And we did eventually pass on a steep section of rocky path one couple obviously older than we were, physically-fit and probably each 70-years-old-plus.

Crisp air, bright sunshine, clear blue skies and colored-leaves scenery are all free and never more gorgeous than now in mid-October. And all around us are beautiful, untouched places—like Glens Natural Area—waiting to be discovered, just by putting one foot in front of the other.

Do yourself a favor. Take a hike.

Video Dispels Misconceptions About Agriculture

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences has a new tool to attract high school students who may be more familiar with microbiology than farming.

"Penn State Ag Sciences... We're more than you think!," a 23-minute video, is aimed at high school students, science teachers and guidance counselors who may not know the scope of agricultural science. About a dozen undergraduates explain why they attend Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Dr. Marianne Houser, coordinator of undergraduate recruitment in the college, supervised production, identified undergraduates and conducted the interviews. "We wanted to present the laboratories, classes, living environments and other aspects of college life from the point of view of the students," says Houser.

Rebecca Sonnen, who graduated with a degree in agricultural science in 1993, narrates the video. She begins by stopping Penn Staters at random and asking what they think agricultural science is about. Almost all answer "just farming." That misconception is shattered as the program showcases opportunities in fields ranging from agronomy to wildlife science.

The video covers academic life from enrolling to graduating and starting a career. Students discuss not only their majors, but also their experiences with research projects, internships and study-aboard programs, as well as nonacademic activities.

The video was produced by Agricultural Information Services in the college. "We tried to tell the personal stories of these students," Says Elissa Morgan, senior producer-director. "We wanted viewers to know what it's really like to attend college here, not just what programs or new equipment we had."

One segment focuses on different housing options, including the Freshman in Science and Engineering (FISE) special interest residence hall, an agriculture honorary fraternity house and even the student housing at the college's research farms.

Many of the students interviewed report that the college's close-knit and supportive nature is a key to making their academic experience a success. "Penn State is a big place, but in the College of Agricultural Sciences I can feel like I'm home, " said Robert Torres, a senior with a dual major in agricultural science and philosophy.

The College of Agricultural Sciences Alumni Society sponsored duplication of the video. Over 500 copies have been delivered to extension agents, alumni, Penn State admission officers and select high schools.

To see the video or to obtain a copy for your high school or youth group, contact the Penn State Cooperative Extension office in your county or the Office for Resident Education, Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences. 101 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16801; (814) 865-7521.

Ag Scholar Alumna Combine Love Of Plants And People

Newark, Del. — "After a weekend visiting the college, I knew I wanted to study here," says Amy Miller Rogers, a graduate of the college of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware. Rogers applied for an agricultural sciences scholarship after hearing a professor from the college speak at her high school.

The Agricultural Sciences Scholarship program opens opportunities for many careers related to agriculture. Since its inception in 1986, 84 scholarships have been awarded and 29 recipients have graduated. The full impact of the program will grow with each graduating class.

Rogers, who graduated in January 1993 with a double major in plant science and agricultural education, says, "My experience at the agricultural college was great. I enjoyed the close working relationship between professors and students."

As a plant science horticulture major, Rogers served two summer internships. At the Cincinnati Zoo and Botanical Gardens she worked maintaining the gardens and developing a garden irrigation system.

The internship at Callaway Gardens in Georgia opened her eyes to the possibilities of public education as a career. While there, she gave educational tours of the vegetable garden used in Public Broadcasting System's popular program "The Victory Garden." She also led tours of herb gardens and conducted herb topiary workshops. She researched and designed children's programs including a butterfly garden and a backyard habitat for wildlife. Following this internship, she decided to add agricultural education as a second major.

"I enjoyed focusing on children and teaching them about the environment," she says. "I hope to educate young children about caring for the future."

Rogers has been applying what she learned in her horticulture classes to managing The Farm Meadows Nursery in Hockessin, Del. During the past year and a half on the job, she has noticed an increasing interest in native plants for landscaping and say it reflects a desire for low maintenance and environmental compatibility. This is a trend she encourages in the retail market.

Rogers plans to increase her knowledge and thus broaden her educational influence by earning a graduate degree in public garden management. She plans to apply for admission to a program in fall of 1995.

Amy Miller Rogers, an agricultural Sciences Scholarship alumna, is now managing Farm Meadows Nursery in Hockessin, Del.

Catch The Taste

Fish may not make you smarter, but it's certainly smart eating, both to stay in shape and to reduce the risk of coronary heart disease. Fish and shellfish are excellent sources of high quality, complete protein, many minerals, and essential B-complex, A and D vitamins.

An average serving of seafood has less than 200 calories. Some of the leaner varieties such as flounder, have as few as 80. Both freshwater and saltwater fish are low enough in sodium to be acceptable for low-sodium diets. While fish are generally low in fat, these are mainly polyunsaturated fats.

Current research shows that certain types of polyunsaturated fats — those contained in seafood — actually tend to reduce the amount of serum cholesterol in the body, and are beneficial in reducing the probability of a heart attack.

SEAFOOD-RICE PLATTER

1⅓ cups water
½ teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf
1⅓ cups minute rice
½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup chopped pimiento
4-ounces chopped mushrooms
2 tablespoons chopped parsley, drained
1 to 2 cups drained, cooked and canned
Crab meat, shrimp, lobster or tuna
Crisp lettuce or other greens
2 to 4 ripe tomatoes, cut in wedges

Bring water, salt, and bay leaf to a boil. Stir in rice, cover, remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes then uncover and cool to room temperature. Remove bay leaf.

About one hour before serving, combine ½ cup mayonnaise, mushrooms, pimiento, and parsley.

Add rice and mix lightly with a fork. Chill. Combine seafood with remaining mayonnaise and lemon juice. Season to taste if preferred. Chill to serve. Arrange rice on crisp lettuce in center of platter with tomatoes and seafood around the rice.

Makes about 3 cups rice plus seafood. If desired, mix ¼ to ½ cup tart French salad dressing with the seafood instead of mayonnaise and lemon juice.

SEAFOOD SCAMPI

3 tablespoons olive oil
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tomato, peeled, seeded, and finely chopped
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
⅛ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
¼ teaspoon salt
½ to ¾ pound large, raw shrimp, peeled and deveined with tail intack
½ pound firm white fish, such as halibut, monkfish or pollock, cut into 2-inch pieces
1 dozen debeared mussels or littleneck clams, scubbed or half of each.

Combine oil and garlic in 8x8x2-inch dish. Cover with plastic wrap and microwave at high one minute 30 seconds. Add tomato, lemon juice, parsley, oregano, pepper and salt; mix well. Add seafood and toss to coat evenly. Arrange seafood in single layer; cover with plastic wrap and vent on corner for steam to escape. Microwave at high 3 minutes; stir. Microwave 2 minutes longer. Let stand, covered, 2 minutes or until shrimp is opaque, shells open and fish begins to flake. Serve in shallow bowls with crust French bread if desired. Makes 4 servings.

CRAB IMPERIAL

½ cup mayonnaise
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons chopped pimento
1 tablespoon chopped green onion
1½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon dry mustard
Generous dash hot pepper sauce
1 pound crab meat, flake style
Freshly ground black pepper
Paprika

Combine mayonnaise, egg, pimento, green onion, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, mustard, and hot pepper sauce. Gently stir in crab meat or surimi. Spoon into 4 to 6 individual casserole dishes or scallop shells. Sprinkle with paprika. Microwave at high 7 to 9 minutes or until thoroughly heated, rearranging dishes once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

By eating fish and shellfish you get the added bonus of the omega-3 fatty acids that appear to have highly beneficial effects on managing cholesterol levels.

VEGETABLE-STUFFED WHITING ROLLS

Place 4 boned whiting fillets, skin side down, on work surface. Place about 2 tablespoons sauteed, chopped vegetables (peppers and carrots) lengthwise down center of each fillet.

Starting at thick end, roll up each fillet; secure with toothpick. Place upright in small baking dish. Turn down the top edge of each roll-up to expose filling. Brush with melted butter and lemon juice into dish around fillets.

Bake at 425 degrees using the 10-minute rule. Garnish with sliced lemon and watercress. Servings 4.

PAN FRIED RAINBOW TROUT WITH ITALIAN FLAVORS

½ cup plain bread crumbs
1 teaspoon dried sage
½ teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon olive oil
4 trout fillets
1 lemon, quartered

Combine first four ingredients. Coat flesh side of trout in bread crumb mixture; set aside. Brush large non-stick skillet lightly with oil. Over high heat, saute trout flesh-side down for 2 minutes. Gently turn trout; saute 2 minutes more. Serve immediately with lemon. Makes 4 servings.

TWO-WAY FISH FILLETS

2 tablespoons butter
1¼ pounds orange roughy, sole or flounder fillets
Salt and pepper (optional)
Creamy tomato sauce

Melt butter in large skillet. Lightly season fillets with salt and pepper, if desired. Saute fillets 2 to 3 minutes on each side until lightly browned and fish flakes easily with fork. Remove from skillet. Serve immediately with creamy tomato sauce.

WRAPPED O'SEA OF BLUE

6 bluefish fillets
6 tablespoons mayonnaise
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon pepper
2 ripe tomatoes, thinly sliced
2 stalks celery, thinly sliced
3 cups hot cooked rice

Place each fillet on large square of heavy duty foil. Spread each fillet with 1 tablespoon mayonnaise; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with tomato slices, then with celery. Fold foil to form a sealed packet, folding ends tightly. Place packets on baking sheet. Bake 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Serve with hot rice.

ITALIAN FISH FILLETS

1 pound fish fillets
½ cup Italian dressing, divided
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon dry bread crumbs
Nonfat tartar sauce

Heat broiler. Place fish on greased rack of broiler pan. Brush with half of the dressing. Broil 2 to 4 inches from heat 5 minutes. Brush with remaining dressing; sprinkle with combined cheese and crumbs. Broil 3 minutes or until lightly browned and fish flakes easily with fork. Serve with sauce. Makes 4 servings.

At the Lampeter Fair, Esther Ruth was the first-place winner in the Hershey's Greatest Cocoa Cake Contest, a contest that Hershey Food Corporation and the Pa. State Association of County Fairs offer at all fairs in Pennsylvania.

Her secret recipe is a long time favorite of her husband, Jeff, and sons, Jason, 19, and David, 12.

Although she loves to bake ever since she was a little girl, this was the first year that Esther took the time to enter a baking contest. About seven years ago Esther worked in a bake shop, which really inspired her creativity in baking. She took a cake decorating course, but her creations are now limited to sparetime. She works full time in physical medicine at Lancaster General Hospital and part time as a hair dresser.

"Working so many hours really puts the squeeze on cooking but it's something I really enjoy," Esther said.

As a winner of the Hershey's Contest, Esther will again bake her winning entry and take it to state competition at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in January.

Although she won't share her prize-winning recipe, here is another chocolate cake recipe she enjoys.

MAYONNAISE CAKE

3 cups unsifted flour
1½ cups sugar
1½ cups cocoa
2¼ teaspoon baking powder
1½ teaspoon baking soda
1½ cups mayonnaise
1½ cups water
2 teaspoons vanilla

Sift dry ingredients. Stir in mayonnaise, water, and vanilla. Divide batter into two 9-inch layer pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Cool and frost with your favorite frosting.

The Old Farmer's Almanac Publishes New Issue

There is something refreshing, and even downright delightful, about getting more than you expected out of anything, especially The Old Farmer's Almanac. Where else can you find a 203-year-old publication loaded with new, fascinating things to read every year?

While you probably know The Old Farmer's Almanac is filled with wit and wisdom, it contains the 1995 weather forecasts, and has plenty of interesting articles and advertisements ... who would have thought that the 1995 edition could also help you find the perfect mate? Or clue you in to the healthiest vegetable of all? (No, it's not Brussels sprouts.)

The 1995 Old Farmer's Almanac—still with its recognizable yellow cover and nail hole in the corner—can be found at newsstands, supermarkets, and bookstores all across America. Plus, with a price tag under four dollars, it's probably cheaper than you ever thought, considering it has hundreds of pages packed with entertaining, informative articles guaranteed to spice up your life—or at least your bedtime reading!

Even though it's the nation's oldest continuously published periodical, the Almanac prides itself on remaining up-to-date. In the opening pages of this year's edition, readers will find a section entitled "Consumer Tastes and Trends for 1995." Do you have any chain-saw or hobo art, old computers, or hammered aluminum handbags or jewelry? These are some of the "hot" collectible for the coming year. Also listed are food, fashion, and home trends, plus new answers to old questions, including "Where does lost airline luggage end up?" and "Is it safe to go swimming after eating?"

While always looking to the future, The Old Farmer's Almanac remembers the past as well. Can you name "The Most Prayed-For Man in World War II"? Or the key player in "The Revolution That Began on Tuesday, October 23, 1945"? The answers are war correspondent Ernie Pyle (who was killed by a sniper 50 years ago while reporting on location on Okinawa) and Jackie Robinson (the first black to play baseball in the Major Leagues). The Jackie Robinson story is excerpted from the script of Ken Burns's nine-part film on baseball, which aired nationwide on PBS September 18.

"Our goal is to pack the pages of the Almanac with useful wit, wisdom, and entertaining, insightful articles," explains Judson Hale, the publication's 12th editor since it was founded in 1792. "We also throw in some uncommon information. Where else would you find a Gestation and Mating Table that includes rams and boars right next to list of plants that attract butterflies?"

The 80-percent-accurate weather predictions in The Old Farmer's Almanac always seem to get a lot of attention. The general November through March forecast for the country calls for near record amounts of snow for the upper Great Plains, Great Lakes, New York, New England, and much of the Appalachians, as well as the higher elevations of the western part of the country, including southern California. Overall, precipitation totals for the winter will be well above normal for much of the country, but well below normal from the central Great Plains to the Gulf of Mexico, in portions of Florida, and in the extreme Northwest.

The popular "Anecdotes and Pleasantries" section offers insight into the bathing habits of today's college students; how to get rid of cockroaches, itsy-bitsy spiders, fleas, and ants in your house; and even something to think about while listening to a boring speech. (I.e., try creating the shortest sentence that includes all the letters of the alphabet, such as Quick frowzy lambs vex the pen judge.)

Lately, the historic Old Farmer's Almanac no longer stands alone on the newsstand. The Almanac editors now produce three other annual periodicals: the Hearth & Home Companion in July; the Gardener's Companion in January; and a brand-new HomeOwner's Companion in March. These offer even more down-to-earth, sensible information and advice for readers particularly interested in traditional Almanac subject categories covering the home, food, and garden. (Customized versions of these three publications, as well as The Old Farmer's Almanac itself, are made available as promotional tools for groups and companies.)

The Old Farmer's Almanac licensing program is growing by leaps and bounds, with a complete line of licensed food and lawn and garden products appearing in stores all across the country. Other licensed products include vitamins, wallpaper, decorative tins, and clothing—all utilizing the Almanac's good name that signifies reliability, quality, and traditional down-home values.

With predictably more within its pages than you ever imagined, The Old Farmer's Almanac guarantees that you will find something to tickle your fancy. And, if you're still puzzling over the healthiest vegetable...try sweet potatoes. They're loaded with beta-carotene, vitamins A, C, B_6, potassium and even dietary fiber. Who would have thought it?

ANSWER — Doris Heggenstaller, Loganton, sent a recipe requested for Sawdust Pudding. Also, Ida Risser, Leola, sent one for Indian Pudding that she thought might be wanted.

Sawdust And Woodchip Pudding

Bake one box yellow cake mix as directed on package. Set aside and cool completely. Break cake into small pieces (wood chips).

Place ½ to 1 cup pine nuts or English walnuts in ungreased skillet and toast lightly. Remove from skillet and cool. Take half of cold nuts and grind them. This is "sawdust."

Make your favorite pudding. When made, use a few nuts and stir into the pudding. Layer the bottom of your serving bowl with some warm pudding mixture. Quickly add a layer of wood chips and top with remaining pudding layer. Cover top with whipped cream (optional). Sprinkle top with some finely ground nuts (sawdust).

If you don't use whipped topping, sprinkle nuts on each serving.

Indian Pudding

¼ cup corn meal
3 tablespoons cornstarch
5 cups milk
¼ cup molasses
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup brown sugar
⅛ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon butter
2 eggs

Mix corn meal and cornstarch with one cup milk. Scald the remaining milk in a double boiler and over hot water. Add corn meal and other ingredients except eggs. When thickened, add beaten eggs.

CLARIFICATION — Several readers asked how many apples should be used in the recipe for Canned Apple Pie Filling that was published in the Sept. 17 issue. Frances Smith who submitted the recipe did not give an exact amount, but said that quart jars should be filled one-third full with the juice mixture and then filled with apple slices and pour in more juice to fill the spaces between the apples. You will need approximately four cups of apples slices for each quart.

Climb The Ladder Of Success, Take Your Family With You

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — When Dr. Charles Petty was 10 years old, his family was fragmented.

"That's when I learned the importance of family and the need to balance our lives," said Petty, who since then has spent a lifetime speaking about achieving success at work and at home.

Recently Petty addressed the Northeast Poultry Show where his humorous speech was punctuated with insightful looks at family relationships.

"Family relationships affect the bottom line of a business," Petty said. "A person's productivity, creativity, and job satisfaction are directly related to his or her personal life."

According to Petty, people who are having trouble at home cannot concentrate on their work. Failure to get along at home takes its economical toll on the company and on the individual employee through absenteeism, illness, alcohol and drug abuse, extended coffee and lunch breaks, personal telephone calls, depression, anger, affairs, burnout, accidents, mistakes, and resignations.

"If you put nothing into your job, how long do you think you would last at your job?" he asked the audience.

Although people recognize that their failure to put any effort in their job would result in immediate unemployment, they don't seem to comprehend that if they put nothing into their family they will soon end up without a family.

"There are no free lunches. You pay the price," Petty said.

He wants spouses to recognize that refusing to deal with small family problems result in bigger problems.

"Alimony," he said, "is like buying oats for a dead horse."

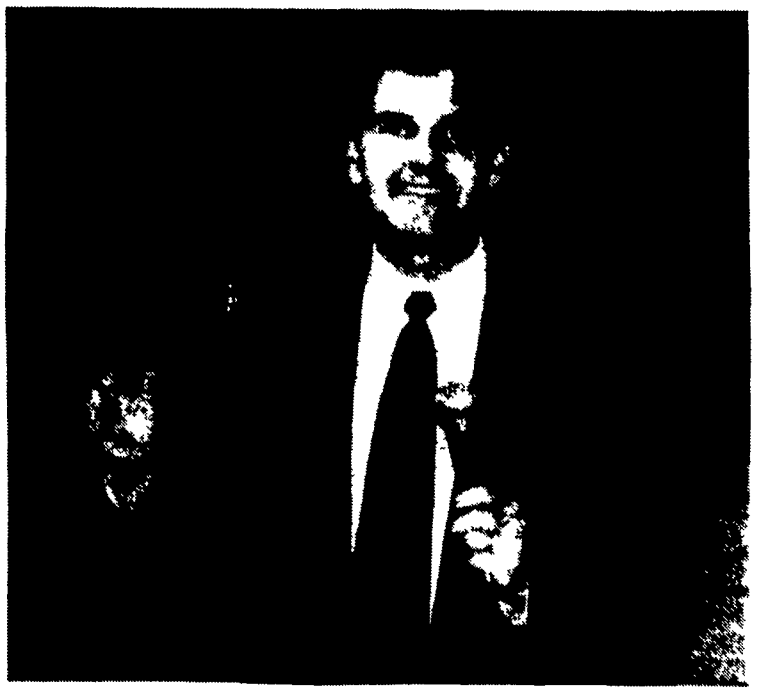
The best way to eliminate problems at home is to devote time and attention to family members.

"Little things make the difference. Warm words of praise, a touch, a hug. Bonding happens with touch — but do not hug teens in public," he said.

Petty emphasized the need to make time for each individual family member. Group attention is not the same. Avoid lumping children together by saying such comments as "You boys."

While it is important in conversation to balance fact with feeling, there is a time when you should only concentrate on one or the other. For example, in the midst of an argument, deal with feelings because spouting off a list of facts will not elicit a spouse to respond, "Dear, you are so right."

A question one should ask him or herself is how would you like it if your spouse acted like you do?



Dr. Charles Petty takes a humorous look at family interactions to encourage listeners to build strong family relationships.

Relationships are more important than things, but families fight over things.

Petty said, "You can spend a lifetime of accumulating things and leave them to people you never had time for."

There are no perfect families, Petty said. It's important to establish priorities. Do that and let other things slide. Focus on what you are called to do.

"What you love is what you do." Unfortunately many spouses are workaholics and forget about priorities.

The health of the nation depends on the health of the family.

For those who make family a priority, Petty said, "When you get to the last rung in your career, turn, and your family is right there beside you. Climb fast, climb hard and high."

Petty attempts to practice what he preaches. He has been married for 30 years and has two children.

To invite Dr. Petty to speak or to order tapes of his speeches, write to McKinney Associates, Inc., P.O. Box 5162, Louisville, KY 40205 or call (502) 583-8222.

Kid's Korner

Lots For Kids To Do On Saturday At KILE

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Hay throwing, sack racing, tractor pulling — those were just some of the ways children had fun during Kid's Day at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition last week.

Cody Croll, 2, son of Beth and Roger Croll, Slippery Rock, was helping Blaze the Balloon Blowing Goat hand out balloons. Blaze's clown sidekick made a hat for David Wolfe, 8, Grindstone.

Jill Matlock, 6, daughter of Tim and Ellen Matlock, Hiram, Ohio threw a bale of hay almost 14 feet.

Randall Dye, 6, in the same division, tossed the bale nearly 13 feet. Randall is the son of Dan and Mary Ellen Dye, Amity.

Mo Vint guided his old steam engine replica, conducting songs for children and adults alike. In the hallway, visitors listened to all sorts of familiar tunes. One of those was "Lady In Red."

What kind of balloon is that? wonders Cody Croll.

PROPERTY TAX RELIEF

Ridge backs tax reform with safeguards

Tom Ridge, Republican candidate for governor, announced export plans at a southcentral PA processing plant. His goal: double farm exports and create 100,000 new jobs.

Boy, do we need Tom Ridge in Harrisburg next January.

Farm property taxes jumped 37% in Pennsylvania the past five years, according to USDA Economic Research Service. And they're still rising.

So what's the answer?

Local tax reform . . . with the right safeguards, says Ridge. The Republican candidate for governor calls for a tax reform act that gives local government and school districts the option to balance tax sources, permanently reduce property taxes and eliminate nuisance taxes.

But Ridge adds these stipulations:

1. "Local tax reform must not be a vehicle for a tax increase," he insists.

2. Local taxpayers must have final say in two voter referendums. One to establish a new tax system. A second to vote up or down any future increase in income or property taxes.

Singel ignored both safeguards in his 1992 reform plan. It opened the door for big tax increases, and didn't give local taxpayers a vote.

As a six-term congressman from rural northwest Pennsylvania, Tom Ridge has worked closely with farm groups and rural communities.

Now Tom Ridge is ready to serve all Pennsylvania. Here's how Tom Ridge will put dollars back in your pocket:

Cut $2 billion in state spending.

Implement local tax reform that permanently reduces property taxes.

Take sting out of workers comp premiums by reworking program.

Personally chair a task force to double PA farm exports.

Invest money in consumer research. Then promote those products that promise big bucks for you.

Save time, save money by giving farmers a new, hassle-free DER.

Help put Tom Ridge in Harrisburg next January. Vote November 8th.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

On our trip to the New England states, we visited the John F. Kennedy Library in Boston beside the Atlantic Ocean. We saw a film on our 35th President's life and looked at various exhibits in many rooms. The eight-story pavilion was enclosed in glass. Here in the archives are millions of pages of documents. It was an emotional experience to view his life story.

Our next stop was entirely different as we were dropped off by our bus at Quincy Market near the waterfront. Here we encountered a mass of humanity as hundreds of people pushed past food vendors as they hunted for lunch items. As we were having a large evening meal, we purchased bowls of soup which we took, outside to eat. When we approached a bench already occupied by a man, he said, "Why stand on your feet when you can sit on your seat." Here we watched people go by until a drizzle sent people for cover. When I ask a man where he purchased his coffee, he just looked at me and said, "German." So I realized we could not communicate. A local guide got on our bus and gave us a three-hour tour of Boston. We also stopped at one of America's most famous churches, the Old North Church. In the evening I wrote postcards to relatives as all the gift shops sold cards.

Our stop at the "House of Seven Gables" and also the birthplace of Nathaniel Hawthorne were quite interesting. A secret staircase was discovered when the 1568 house was renovated. Our mystery stop of the day was a paper house. Not only were the walls made of 215 thicknesses of newspaper but the piano, desk, clock and other furniture were also make of rolls of paper.

In South Portland we had an afternoon cruise on Casco Bay where we saw forts and lighthouses. We had a choice of a whole lobster for our evening meal and so I ordered one. Some folks ordered other meat as they did not want to work on taking a lobster apart.

Our guide will always remember this trip as one lady fell in the bathtub, another had to go to a hospital for an overnight stay, and the bus driver traveled in circles for half an hour as he hunted a restaurant in Worchester.

Generosity Abounds At Manheim Livestock Sale

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — A festive air filled the livestock sale barn where the Manheim Farm Show Youth Livestock Sale offered the grand finale of the county's fair season on Friday night, October 7.

The sale ring, strewn with brightly-dyed blue and yellow sawdust and adorned with cornstalks, hay bales, pumpkins, and chrysanthemums, set the stage. Exhibitors led steers with shimmering ebony coats, sheep and goats with fabric bows, and unruly pigs with ribbons tied to their curly tails around the show ring as the auctioneer's sing-song chant enticed 58 bidders to support the FFA'ers' and 4-H'ers' efforts.

"Record settin'" prices were tallied for goats when Anna Landis's grand champion brought $5 a pound from the Manheim Auto Auction and Jodi Gebhard's reserve sold for $4.40 per pound to Walter Dunlap.

Melissa Becker's grand champion market hog set another record when Clarence Moyer of the Manheim Auto Auction bid $8.10 per pound.

Travis Donough received $5.35 per pound for his reserve champion market hog, purchased by Bombergers Store, and $4.10 per pound for his supreme champion steer that weighed 1,312 pounds, from Brian Burkholder.

Hoss's Steak and Sea House purchased David Bollinger's FFA champion steer for $3.10 per pound, then donated it back to the Manheim FFA; Manheim Auto Auction then purchased the steer for $2 per pound.

Lapp's Family Restaurant paid $4.50 per pound for the reserve champion steer weighing 1,340 pounds and raised by Casey High of Lititz.

Fox Market of Columbia paid $5.25 for Corby Zeigler's grand champion market lamb. Hoss's Steak and Sea House paid $4 per pound for the reserve champion lamb raised by Derick Bollinger.

Generosity abounded not only in the bidders but also the exhibitors. Melissa Becker who showed the champion market hog and who is an FFA student at Manheim Central, donated the profits of her pig Bertha to help pay expenses for seven students to attend the Kansas City FFA Convention on November 9-13.

According to Becker, Bertha, born in a small, insignificant town in Maryland, grew up in Union Square. Bertha took mud baths to aid her flawless complexion, parti-

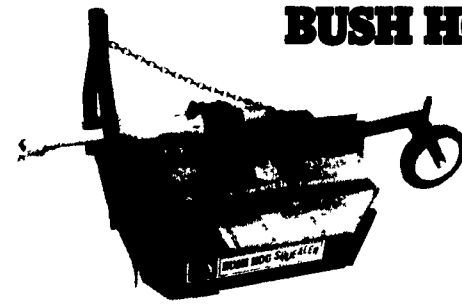
Why Bush Hog Squealers Mow down The Competition

BUSH HOG®



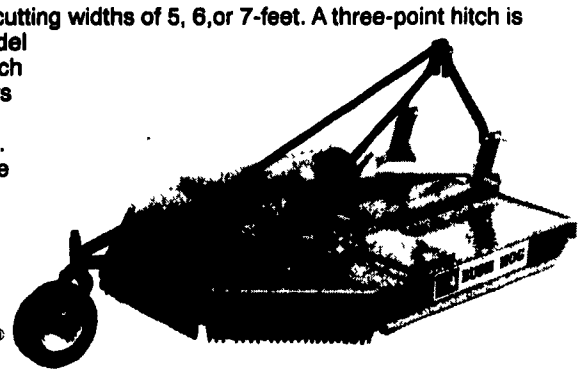
There are two basic reasons and quality is the first. Each Squealer model is equipped with Bush Hog's tough gearbox that carries a 2-year warranty. All models, except the 42-inch wide cutter feature oval blade pans, and the 60 and 72-inch wide models have an "in-line" shear bolt with ball bearing protection that can be replaced in a snap. An optional slip clutch is available.
The second reason for the Squealer's popularity is price. Select any of 5 models, 42 to 84-inches wide, and compare prices with the competition. With a true price/quality comparison, it's easy to see why Squealers mow down the competition.

For Pastures, For Roadsides, For Stalks... Here's The Rotary Cutter You Need.

Bush Hog's medium duty 270 Series Rotary Cutters are excellent tools for the widest variety of land maintenance chores. And they're built tough, built to withstand rugged cutting in material up to 2-inches thick. Decks are 10 gauge steel, continuous welded and braced at all stress points.

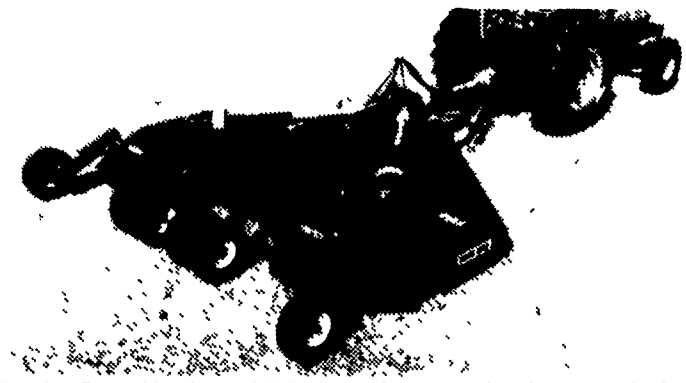
Select from three models, in cutting widths of 5, 6,or 7-feet. A three-point hitch is standard, and for the 7-foot model and economical semi-mount hitch is available. Round bladeholders and laminated wheels are also standard on all models.

Come in today and learn more about Bush Hog's 270 Series Rotary Cutters.



BUSH HOG®

Not All Fields Are Perfectly Flat



That's why the Bush Hog® model 2615 15-foot cutter's wings are designed to float along contours as severe as 90 degrees up or 22 degrees down while shredding stalks, clipping pastures or cutting along rights-of-ways, drainage ditches, terraces and fence rows. As it does so, an automatic height adjustment keeps the wings cutting at the same height as the center section. A framing system featuring closed box members allows us to make the 2615 pounds lighter without sacrificing any of the strength you've come to expect from a Bush Hog. And, less weight not only means less wear and tear on your tractor but it has also allowed us to cut the price.

Why pay more to get less - make a Bush Hog's success your success.

cipated in Weight Watchers the last few weeks, and wore a white belt that goes perfectly with everything. It was announced that "Other swine friends were pink with envy since the Duroc-Hampshire cross (black and white) Bertha was chosen for the honor."

A clapping, enthusiastic crowd beat time to the bidding that rose to $7 per pound.

In a surprise move, Manheim Auto Auction purchased Jamie Sellard's hog and then donated both profits and the pig back to the FFA fund, which resulted in being resold for $2.75 a pound to Carlos Leffler Co. and resold again to Ruhl's Insurance for $1.50 per pound.

Deb Seibert, FFA advisor, donated a woven L.L. Bean Country Fair quilt to be sold over the auction block. It brought $120 from Wolgemuth Auction Service.

Altogether, the FFA had $4,500 donated to their fund during the Friday night sale. Funds not needed for the Kansas City trip will be used for other trips and conferences that FFA members attend during the year.

When the prices were tallied, the market lambs averaged $2.57 per pound, goats averaged $2.58 per pound, market swine averaged $1.32 per pound, and steers averaged $2.05 per pound.

Good Housekeeping awards and $25 went to exhibitors who kept the cleanest pens for their livestock during the week. The awards were earned by the Jake Fisher Family, goats; The Pfautz Family, swine; Travis and Ryan Donough, sheep; and John Lentz, steer.

Small Town Celebrates With Apple And Cheese Festival

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

CANTON (Bradford Co.) — Bright red apples, shown with brilliance under the clear, blue sky on the second day of the two-day Pennsylvania State Apple-Cheese Festival, striking a sharp contrast to the previous day's rainy conditions.

Even with the muddy fields, attendance totals reached 4,000 on Saturday, October 1 and skyrocketed to 12,000 on a clear-skyed Sunday, October 2.

In its sixth year, the Apple-Cheese Festival got its start when a group of community-minded citizens decided that their small town needed something to boost moral.

"It started with the Rekindle the Spirit Program back in the mid-eighties. We had some people in town interested in trying to increase the prosperity of Canton. We were getting very down and not very positive. A promotion committee was put together and out of that committee came this apple and cheese festival idea," said event chairman Beth Stiner. "We have an older lady in town who said she always thought it would be good to have an apple and cheese festival because we have lots of apple orchards and then we have the dairy industry. And it fits...it's perfect...and we ran with it."

From its start in 1988, the event has grown steadily from showcasing about 30 craft and food vendors to hosting close to 175 vendors this year. In fact, vendors must apply to be admitted and each year, some are turned away.

As a special notation, this year, the event was designated the Pennsylvania State Apple-Cheese Festival thanks to efforts of State Representative Matthew Baker and some hard working committee members.

Unfortunately, tons of preparation and hard work can easily be complicated by unruly weather. Rain the week before and rain all day on the opening day did present some problems. However, Stiner stressed, the difficulties were overcome to the best of everyone's ability.

"We worked hard to get the field read for Saturday. We worked on it all day Friday and lo and behold, Saturday it rained all day. So we had to hustle again Sunday morning to get it ready. People literally sat in mud," said Stiner.

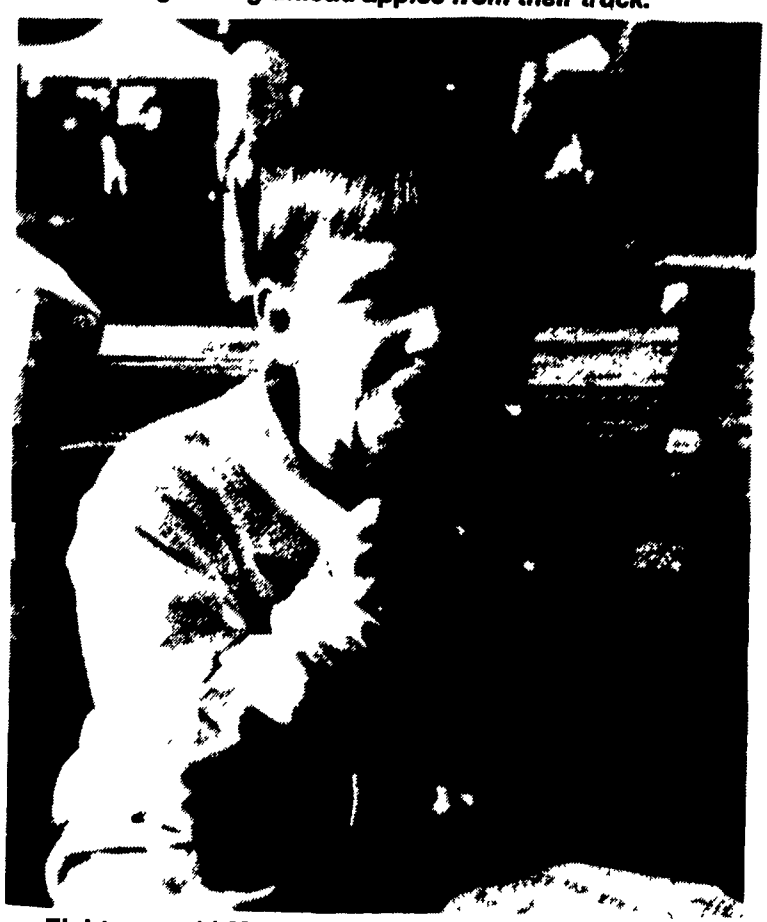
Setting up a display at the festival takes a lot of help. Here Harold Landon, his grandson Cotie Strong and son-in-law Greg Strong unload apples from their truck.



Eight-year-old Matthew Thurston takes a big bite of his candy apple while taking a break from the festivities.

But everyone helped to get the field back in condition, taking turns shoveling sawdust into puddles to help make the area passable. And, judging from the reaction of the crowd, rain didn't dampen the spirit of the festival one bit.

Pat Height, a resident of Canton is one of the many volunteers who helped make the festival successful.

"I help work at the apple butter stand. I've helped with the festival for three years. I can remember whin I was a kid, coming here to pick apples to make applesauce. It was a family outing," she said.

Besides celebrating the apple and dairy industries, the event also focuses on the history of the ares.

Local historian Elwyn Kie guided a bus tour through the nearby apple orchards.

Sites visited included Landon's Orchards, owned by Allyn Landon; H&E Orchard, owned by Harold and Edna Landon; the Cedar Ledge Orchard, owned by Frank and Joyce Landon; and the Rockgirt Orchards, now known as the Davis Van Dyke Orchards, owned by Davis VanDyke.

"I like other people to know what we have here. I really think that we have an awful lot here," said Kie.

Each orchard has its own unique history which was explained by Kie as the tour bus winded its way through the many orchards.

According to Kie, the ground where Landon Orchards now stands has been in the Landon Family since 1845, but the orchard was not planted until about 1912 by Benjamin Landon, a grandson of the original owner. Benjamin's grandson, Allyn now maintains the orchard, which covers 75 acres. Annual yield of the orchard is about 25,000–30,000 bushels. Recently Landon has planted 5,700 dwarf and semi-dwarf apple trees. The semi-dwarf varieties mature faster, are easier to pick from and because they can be planted closer together, yield more apples per acre.

In addition to growing apples, Landon maintains an apple sorting, packaging and storage facility and operates a stainless steel cider making press.

Bruce Cavanaugh of Gillett and Katrina Hoke of Lebanon savor their apple pie during the sixth annual Pennsylvania State Apple-Cheese Festival.

H&E orchard is a small orchard consisting of about 375 trees. Each year they harvest approximately 3,500 bushels total of Milton, Wealthy, Macintosh, Cortland, Macoun, Spies, Ida Reds and Red Delicious apples. The family has also started raising some antique varieties of apples in a new orchard.

Cedar Ledge Orchard has been in the Landon family since the 1930s. The location is also home to a store and service station where apples are stored and cider is pressed year-round. Their orchard consists of Cortlands, Ida Reds and a yellow-green semi-dwarfed variety known as Matsu or Crispen. Besides apples, the Cedar Ledge Orchard also has peach trees, and sweet and sour cherry trees.

The final tour stop, Rockgirt Orchards, was planted in 1909. At this site, located in the Minnequa Heights area of Canton the original owner manufactured and sold apple butter. In addition, the original owner, L.M. Marble, built two cold storage facilities which were the first refrigerated buildings built for the preservation of fruits and vegetables. Experiments on the effects of refrigeration on fruits and vegetables were conducted here by the Pennsylvania State University. The Rockgirt Orchard is no longer a working orchard.

Back on the festival grounds, visitors could browse through the many rows of craft vendors and sample just about any thing made with apples or cheese. Among the goodies were apple pie, apple butter, apple pancakes, applesauce, candy apples as well as many varieties of cheeses.

The event attracts people from all over. Stiner even noted that they have had visitors from overseas. With its growing popularity, more and more people are interested in coming to the area.

"Last week," said Stiner, "I had calls from Altoona and Philadelphia. These were people who wanted to come to the area and spend the night."

A visitor from the Wyalusing area came to learn more about the area and about apples. Joan O'Connor, who was traveling with her husband, Louie and children Jamie and Lindsey, noted that the festival was "muddy, but otherwise nice." She added that her daughter, Jamie, had to do a

Mowrys Bring Capon Club To Bedford County Youth

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD, (Bedford Co). — A love for kids and the knowledge that the local poultry business is dying out while a demand for chicken is increasing led Gail and Gerald Mowry of Imler to start the Bedford County Capon Club.

Kicking off in 1993, the club has 22 members ranging in age from five to 17.

"Even those little kids can carry a bucket of water or grain to their birds," Gerald smiles. "It's lots of fun to watch them get enthused."

The venture also brought chickens back to the Bedford County Fair after many years' absence. "Think about it," Gail says. "I can just barely remember the last time chickens were a part of the fair."

Each of the club members enters two capons. A sale is then held in late September with each of the members bringing the dressed capons. Sale goers are treated to sandwiches, finger foods, and cake.

"Last year, we had a tremendous turnout," Gail admits. "But, we were a little disappointed this year." She adds that the first year invitations were done personally while, this year, they relied on handprinted invitations to local physicians, restaurants, and farm-related businesses.

"I think the person-to-person must work the best," she concluded. "It's what we'll go back to next year."

Gerald also thinks they may try becoming a part of the Bedford County 4-H. "They have far reaching contacts that we just don't have," he points out. "Our only problem was the young age of some of our chicken farmers, but the local 4-H doesn't see that as a problem."

Capon club members range from 5 to 17 years of age.

Even with this year's low attendance, the 52 dressed capons brought a total of $1,252.82. All of the money will be returned to the club members who will use a portion of it to purchase birds for next year's flock.

"It will get easier," Gerald assumes. "The first year, we had to raise the money for chicks without any cash flow. We had hoagie sales and stuffed advertisements in the local newspaper in order to get started.

"And, we copied some of our ideas from the Cambria County Club."

It was Cambria County who first gave Gerald and Gail the idea.

"We were dressing their birds and just kept asking questions," Gail says. "Gerald remembered his grandfather getting him started with farm animals when he was a kid and we wanted to do the same for our grandchildren. It just grew from there."

Club members of the Bedford County Capon Club started by Gerald and Bail Mowry pose for a picture. They are Brandon Carson, Michael Berkey, Albert Corle, Megan Gayman, Susie Zimmerman, Corinne Berkey, Zachery Corle, Nathan Claycomb, Trevor Guyer, and Kirstin Guyer. Row Two: Michelle Toth, Cassie Imes, Sam Zimmerman, Jan Gayman, and Joshua Corle. Row three: Aaron Corle, Joel Corle, Corey Imes, Brian Toth, Jeremy Berkey, Stephan Feather, Jeremy Corle, Bobby Wolfe, Christine Zimmerman.

The Mowrys also see a future for some of the kids with the processing business. "It's a good business and one that no one is going into," says Gail. "It's hard work and not many people want to do it. But, at the same time, there is a growing demand for poultry and someone has to process it."

"It's also a good farm project for today's kids who are growing up on less acreage than we did. You can raise a flock of chickens on a little bit of land compared to beef cattle or even sheep."

Diane Myers, a friend of the Mowrys', does all of the caponizing prior to the kids picking up their chicks.

This year's grand champion was Brandon Carson who sold a ten-pound-eight-ounce; and a ten-pound-two-ounce bird.

Joel Corle was reserve champ with a ten-pound-four ounce, and a ten-pound bird.

Bordon Diehl, a sales rep for Thomas Chevrolet, was top buyer.

Stanley Claycomb, local auctioneer, volunteered his time for the annual September capon sale held at the Bedford Grange Hall. Here, a young capon member holds up her bird as Stanley urges the audience to bid a higher price.

report on apples for school, so she was gathering all the information she could.

Another first-time visitor from the Williamsport area, Diane Brinser, remarked that the festival was "nice." She especially enjoyed the tour of the apple orchards.

From one idea, the size of an apple seed, grew an entire festival that the whole state can be proud of.

"It started from just a very simple committee. People wanting things to be better in our town. We've been able to treat it as a business. I'm not sure that it's a business...it's life, you know, taking food things and working with them and doing the best you can and trying to create a positive feeling. Not just for Canton, but for the people who are here," said Stiner.

Westmoreland Extension Ho

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

FORT HILL (Somerset Co.) — Three glorious, late September days at the Deer Valley YMCA Camp, marked the ninth year for a retreat called Mental Energy (M.E.), held by the Westmoreland County Cooperative Extension located in Greensburg.

Open to any person longing for relaxation, renewal and recreation, 31 individuals descended into the lake-fronted camp near Mt. Davis, Pennsylvania's highest elevation, at 3,214 feet.

"It's a chance for anyone to come and renew themselves, said Nancy Wallace, Westmoreland extension agent and family living expert.

"Women mostly tend to put themselves in second place because they are (primarily) concerned with what's happening with their husband and children, not themselves," said Wallace.

So workshops on day one were Nature Walk, Nature Printing and The Two "R's" (relaxation and renewal). Workshops on day two were Cheesecloth Ghosts, Drying

JOHN DEERE 714 MULCH TILLER AND 550 MULCH MASTER

Post-harvest protection, preplant preparation

Here's a one-two punch that keeps residue levels up without sacrificing tillage benefits: Team up the 714 Mulch Tiller and the 550 Mulch Master for your primary and secondary tillage.

Winterize your fields. Put the John Deere 714 Mulch Tiller to work after harvest to cut up stalks and slice packed soil. The 714 leaves a protective blanket of up to 80 percent of initial residue . . . to keep moisture in and topsoil on. High underframe clearance and hydraulic coulter depth adjustment keep you in the driver's seat despite changing field conditions.

Safeguard your seedbed. Next spring, hitch up the weed-killing, residue-saving John Deere 550 Mulch Master for ideal seedbed preparation. Mulch Master's double rank of patented cup-tooth incorporator wheels mix chemicals uniformly into the weed zone . . . and kick up buried residue. One pass is all you need.

Don't sacrifice tillage benefits for higher residue levels. Get both with the ideal tillage team for conservation farming – the 714 Mulch Tiller and the 550 Mulch Master – from your John Deere dealer.

ds Mental Energy Retreat

Fruits and Vegetables and Team Building. The last day, "Hardening of the Attitude," got everyone involved in a little introspection and self-examination.

While half the group, judging by the laughter echoing from the Nature Center, was apparently enjoying the craft of making little ghosties, formed basically by poking an inverted, disposable, paraffin-coated cup with a light bulb and draping cheesecloth over it, the other half was learning to properly dry fruits, veggies, and meats.

This workshop, lead by Wallace and her assistant, Linda Pinazza, found the group learning the ins and outs of drying beef for jerky. Pinazza said the expensive snack has a high seasoning concentration which neutralized the bacteria in the approximate 10 hours of drying.

Pinazza advised anyone interested in making jerky to use top round, flank steak or sirloin. She said to dry the thin slices until they bend but not until they crack. The temperature should be 140 degrees.

The dried pineapple slices were unsurpassed in popularity when samples were later passed, and comments heard. But jerky's lasting chewiness won few votes, according to other vocal responses. Those unique qualities make the light-weight jerky an excellent food source for hunters, hikers, campers, and so forth, according to Pinazza. And after it's been dried there's no fuss, just convenience.

In team building the emphasis was on what makes a group work. Each participant decided if her personality in a group resembled a lion, an owl, and antelope or a fox.

Ruth Hall from Lower Burrell, Westmoreland County, said she's attended the M.E. retreat for eight years. "It's a nice getaway time to let your hair down," she said, "and to learn new information about crafts and things."

She belongs to a homemaker group in her community, so the information Hall gets at the retreat she shares with the homemakers back home. The fresh ideas enhance craft projects that the group donates to fund-raising benefits.

A public speaker, Hall says the retreats have been great for her personal growth. "It's given me a little more confidence to speak to business group, churches, and homemaker groups," she said.

"What's neat about this place," Hall noted, "is there is no television, no radio, no outside interference. You realize the world is there, but it doesn't intrude."

Her words confirm the thoughts of Wallace who said that the only pressure during the three days, is making it to the dining room for the great meals which, of course, are always sensational when somebody else does the cooking. One day, lunch consisted of soup, sandwich and salad bar, and fresh fruit. Barbecued chicken, done outside, was served for dinner.

The group left no doubt that it was pampered at the gracious camp which Wallace calls "Holiday Inn camping," because there's electricity, heat, and inside beds.

Midst the deer valley tranquility, apparently unhindered except for chattering chipmunks, graceful deer, furry and feathered creatures, the group was offered nature hikes to study wildflowers and the environment, pontooning on the rippling, 125-acre lake, and an evening hayride.

Round hay bales lay like polka dots in a field flanking the opposite shore, and strips of corn rows rolled over the sloping terrain, creating pretty gaps in dense woodlands. One woman observed that Deer Valley is accessible, though beautifully secluded, it isn't isolated.

Some gals said they enjoyed driving out to camp to visit the neighboring areas with rich Mennonite and Amish roots, such as Springs, Salisbury, and Grantsville, Md. They delighted in the commonly seen horse and buggy and drove to purchase the popular fudge confections for which one Amish woman is famed and visited quaint stores and craft shops.

Returning to the life of jangling telephones and busy routines was inevitable, but Wallace said each participant in the Mental Energy Retreat is asked to return an evaluation of the experience. "I'll get suggestions," she said, "but they are always positive suggestions."

Wallace who's been an extension agent for 25 years, has spent 20 of them in Westmoreland County, she said.

After learning how to make little ghosts at the Mental Energy Retreat, sponsored by the Westmoreland County Cooperative Extension, participants are placing them on waxed paper to dry in the sunshine.

QUESTION — Kenneth Hixon, Warfordsburg, would like the complete address for the Schrader Co. that makes automotive tire repair accessories. He needs parts for #5235 valve vulcanizing tool.

ANSWER — To the reader who wanted some tips on cabbage growing, here are a few more from M. Carver. Early cabbage heads are apt to split after a heavy rain and rot in the garden with the heat. After harvest put the heads in ventilated plastic bags, keep in a cool place or refrigerate. Late cabbage — should the heads get big and you wish to leave them in the garden longer, give the plants a twist to break a few roots and keep them from absorbing too much water. As with brussels sprouts, cabbage may be pulled from the garden and stored in a cool place hung by its roots.

ANSWER — Hilda L. Rossal, Bethel, N.Y., is looking for a person who could teach rag rug weaving on the loom. She lives in the Honesdale area. Thanks to Janna Hearn, Osterburg, who writes that she has been weaving for nine year, but lives too far away to instruct Hilda. Janna said that a book, "The Rag Rug Handbook," can teach everything that needs to be known to weave rugs. The address for the handbook is Leesburg Loom and Supply, 201 N. Cherry St. Van Wert, Ohio 45891.

It's 1994, time to start looking for that future champion steer. We have already been looking. I toured the West again and bought all the thick calves I saw. They come from Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas. We have taken the work out of looking for truly good calves to bring them for your inspection. These calves will be all you ever expected in Western bred club calves. Along with our deep set of home bred calves, they will be worth your time to see. I have received many phone calls from 1993 buyers about their champion steers purchased last year. The response has been overwhelming. The calves will all be wormed, vaccinated, pre-conditioned and broke to tie.

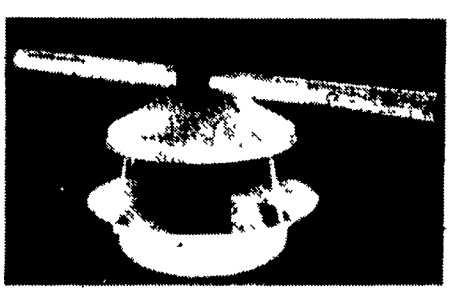
NEW & LATEST IDEAS IN TURKEY BUILDING & EQUIPMENT

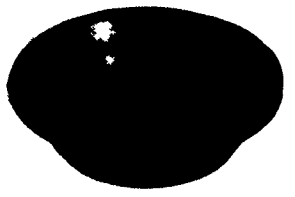
Cumberland

TURKEY PAN FEEDING SYSTEMS



SIMPLY THE LEADER

Cumberland continues being the leader in the manufacturing of poultry equipment by introducing a turkey feeding system for every application. Cumberland's Turkey Feeders have revolutionary features which make them both profitable and easy to maintain for the end customer. Cumberland Feeders deliver feed economically, efficiently, and dependably with savings for the grower. The Cumberland Turkey Pan Feeding System offers a poult turkey pan for young turkeys and two models of adult turkey pans, designed to withstand the rugged treatment of adult turkeys through grow out.



NEW PLASTIC PAN

Easier to clean. non-corrosive... lighter... Cumberland's plastic pan for both STF and RTF Adult Pan Feeders features improved structural engineering with stronger support gussets, a more durable and effective "hanger" for cleaning and a unique set of two feed-saving "catch walls" that significantly reduce raking and billout.

GRILLESS PAN FEEDER

Growers who prefer a shallower pan for poults appreciate the classic Cumberland grilless pan feeder. Its feed saver lip prevents waste from raking and billout, while the wide center cone (with its simple and easy feed level adjustment) keeps birds out of the pan and guarantees a more efficient "first in, first out" utilization of feed. It can be mounted on the line as stationary or free-swinging, depending on your preference.

Md. Shorthorn Association Sets Fall Club Calf Sale

FREDERICK, Md. — Top quality Shorthorn steers are entered in the Maryland Shorthorn Association's Fall Club Calf Sale to be held at the Frederick Fairgrounds on Saturday, Oct. 29 at 7 p.m.

This past year, Shorthorns made quite an impression on the judges at area shows including reserve grand champion steer at the Maryland State Fair. All of these sale calves have the potential to be 1995 show winners.

All steer calves have been halter-broken, castrated, dehorned, wormed, and vaccinated for blackleg, BVD, IBR, P13 and BRSV and must have met all state health requirements.

Any steer purchased at this sale will be eligible to compete in the Maryland Shorthorn Association's Incentive Program for the 1995 show season. This program pays $50 to the champion and $25 to the reserve champion Shorthorn steer at the Eastern Regional Shorthorn Show, all Maryland County fairs, the Maryland State Fair, and the Eastern National Livestock Show. (Exhibitors may receive only one incentive award at the county fair level.) A new halter provided by the Maryland Shorthorn Association will be given with each steer purchased.

One added attraction to this year's sale will be a heifer showcase area. Shorthorn breeders will be displaying some of their top quality young heifers which will be available for private treaty sales. All of these heifers were born after September 1993 and will qualify for the 1995 show season.

This will give interested persons a chance to see many prospective heifer projects without the hassle of driving to different farms. These animals will not be going through the auction ring but will be available strictly for private sale. All heifers also meet all state health requirements and will be available for you to take home the night of the sale.

For further information about the sale please contact Sue Kline (410) 775-2581 or Carl Holland (301) 972-0859.

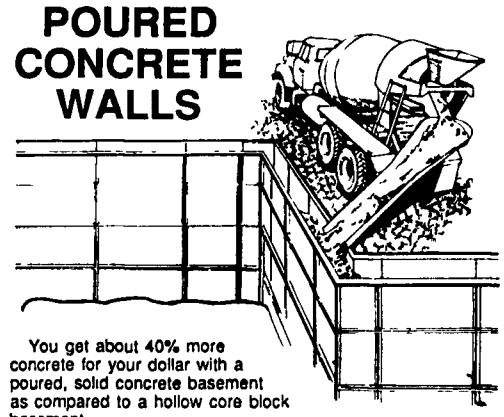
POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs. more per cubic foot! Far denser What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced

- Hog House Walls

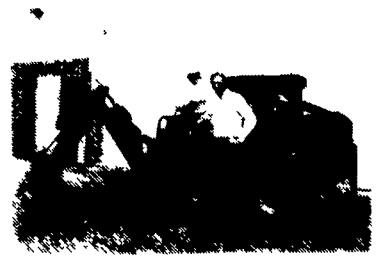
New Holland Updates Skid-Steer Backhoes

NEW HOLLAND, (Lancaster Co.) — New Holland boom-mounted backhoes have been updated for the new Super Boom® skid-steer loaders, said Product Manager Kim Robinson. In addition to fitting the new New Holland loaders, the four new backhoes fit competitive skid-steer loaders as well as earlier New Holland machines.

The new Pick up 'n Go™ universal attachments system provides quick and easy backhoe hookup. "This saves time and simplifies work for excavators, drainage, utility, and building contractors," Robinson said. "The operator's seat is fully adjustable and features a flip-up lock. A low deck makes entry and exit easier. Control levers are more comfortable and it's easy to reach the throttle on the skid-steer loader from the backhoe seat."

The open-center hydraulic system features circuit reliefs in the boom, dipper and bucket, and anti-cavitation swing valves. Grouser stabilizer pads provide a surer footing in uneven digging conditions.



New Holland boom-mounted backhoes have been updated for use with the company's new Super Boom® skid-steer loaders, said Product Manager Kim Robinson, above. Industry-standard mounting plates adapt for use with competitive machines as well as with earlier and current New Holland skid-steer loaders.

The four-model backhoe line includes the "B-104" which has 8 foot 2 inch maximum digging depth. The "BH 114" digs to 9 feet, 4 inches. The "B 124" has a 11 foot 7 inch maximum digging depth, and the "BH 124" digs 11 feet 8 inches deep.

Slingers Have Twin Auger Design

Knight Manufacturing has announced two new 8000 Series ProTwin slinger spreaders: the 2,400 gallon, model 8024; and the 1,800 gallon, model 8018. The new models join the very successful 3,080 gallon model 8030 ProTwin, which was introduced in the summer of 1993.

The ProTwins feature a patented twin auger design which creates a circulating action inside the unit, virtually eliminating bridging and over-aggressive forward movement of the material. The left auger moves material forward to the discharge hammers. The slightly raised right auger moves material rearward while keeping the left auger evenly charged with material.

It is the patented circulation action that makes th ProTwin Slingers so effective in handling the toughest material encountered in most waste applications.

The patented Knight forged steel hammer design features fifteen free-swinging hammers which pulverize material and provide a fine spread pattern of 20 to 50 feet in width.

American Cyanamid Increases Sales

WAYNE, N.J. — American Cyanamid recently announced that sales of Counter® CR™ systemic insecticide-nematicide doubled this year, making it one of the fastest-growing crop protection products on the agricultural market. This year alone, corn growers have treated more than seven million acres with the soil-applied insecticide.

According to Product Manager Kent Gutzmer, Counter CR sales far exceeded Cyanamid's expectations. In response, the company has prepared to increase production for the third year in a row. "We've expanded the capacity of our manufacturing facilities again," he said.

Gutzmer attributes the success of Counter CR to the benefits of controlled-release technology. "Counter CR provides growers with proven Counter performance, herbicide flexibility, and up to five times less dust."

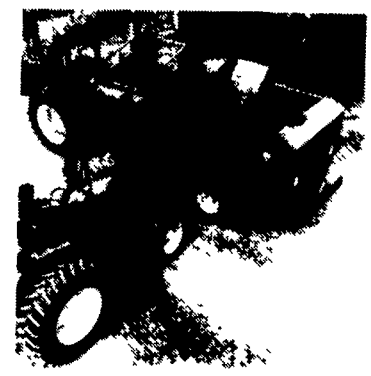
That conclusion is the result of recent Cyanamid tests using the Heubach Dustmeter, a device widely employed in the surveillance of national hygiene standards. "Growers want a low-dust formulation because it reduces the likelihood of insecticide exposure through inhalation or contact with the skin or eyes," said Rick Radliff, Cyanamid technical specialist-insecticides.

Feed Mixers New To Deere Product Line

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere has added three total mixed ration (TMR) feed mixers to its line of equipment for the livestock and dairy industries.

The trailer-mounted model 127, 135, and 152 TMR feed mixers have a mixing capacity of 270, 350, and 520 cubic feet, respectively. The largest model is also available in an optional truck-mounted version.

These new mixers feature a slow-turning rotor that mixed feed ingredients and directs the material to a top and bottom auger on the left side of the machine. The top auger delivers material rearward and the bottom auger moves material forward to the discharge door. This arrangement ensures thorough end-to-end mixing for consistent rations.



The John Deere 135 TMR (Total Mixed Ration) feed mixer has a mixing capacity of 350 cubic feet. All three TMRs feature a slow-turning rotor that tumbles the feed and lifts it up to the side augers for thorough end-to-end mixing.

The standard 30-bar rotor easily mixes hay into the ration. A wiper on one of the bars cleans out that bottom of th tank a material is delivered to the bottom auger for unloading. All three bars are spring-loaded to ride over obstructions. For heavy rations, a 5-bar rotor with a wiper on each bar is available.

Compared to multiple-auger mixers, the rotor and two augers mix feed quicker, with less crushing for a more nutritional final product. They also require less power.

Value-Added Features On Deere Combines

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere has announced several value-added features that will be available as standard equipment or as options on its 9000 Series Maximizer™ combines in the 1995 model year.

Among these features are options such as an automatic header lateral-tilt system, a choice of high-flotation systems fort increased mobility and reduced compaction, an air-suspension seat, and a Combine Data Center that calculates field performance and provides settings for a variety of crops.

In addition, Deere announced a range of optional features that improve performance in specific crops or operating condition.

The new John Deere Contour Master™ tilt system permits the header to tilt laterally four degrees up and down to follow varying contours of sloping fields. This provides a more consistent cutting height across the full width of the header and improves harvesting efficiency in low-growing crops such as soybeans. The system also enables wide platforms to perform well in conditions normally limited to harvesting with narrow units due to uneven ground conditions.

The John Deere Contour Master™ tilt system permits the header to tilt laterally four degrees up and down to follow ground contours. This provides a more consistent cutting height across the full width of the header. The system's response rate can be as fast as four degrees per second.

The tilting frame is an integral part of the feederhouse, not an add-on, so the feeder house is the same length as the standard version. This maintains the same visibility to the cutterbar, with no increase in front-axle loading and no change in machine balance or in crop delivery.

The heavy-duty design has the strength to handle high-inertial loads of 12-row heads and 30-foot platforms. Plus, the feederhouse can withstand the heavy racking loads generated when the header rapidly tilts back and forth during field operations. The bottom pivot pin is mounted on a durable bushing that doesn't require lubrication. A slide pad at each corner of the tilt frame provides smooth, continuous pivoting action.

Agco Unveils 7 High Horsepower Tractors

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Agco Corporation introduced an expanded line of Agco Allis high-horsepower tractors at a special product introduction held for its dealers in Kansas City.

Designed for the changing needs of today's producer, the seven new tractor models collectively offer increased power, more engine and transmission choices, and greater operator control.

The addition of four new "5 Series" powershift models completes the line of 9600 Series tractors. They include the new 135-horsepower 9635, the 155-horsepower 9655, the 175-horsepower 9675, and the 195-horsepower 9695. All four models offer the 9600's rugged, cast-iron mainframe, cab-forward design and a big, roomy cab. However, the "5 Series" model designation indicates that each unit is powered by a new Series 40 liquid-cooled diesel engine.

With the introduction of the Series 40 engine in the Independence, Mo-built Agco Allis tractors, Agco offers customers a choice of liquid-cooled or air-cooled powerplants. The 9630, 9650, 9670, and 9690 models, introduced in 1993, will continue to be available with the reliable Deutz air-cooled diesel engine.

Agco Corporation, today, introduced an expanded line of Agco Allis high-horsepower tractors at a special product introduction held for its dealers in Kansas City.

The new models 9635 and 9655 are powered by an in-line six cylinder 7.6 liter (466 cubic inch) liquid-cooled engine with direct injection and turbocharging. The higher horsepower models 9675 and 9695, meanwhile, are powered by an 8.7 liter (530 cubic inch) direct-injected six cylinder diesel.

The engines on all four models share a significant number of big bore engine features. Among them are a high-strength alloy, cast-iron, deep skirt cylinder block with wet replaceable liners, a one-piece computer-designed cylinder head with replaceable valve guides and valve seat inserts, and large crankshaft and connecting rod bearings for high-horsepower capacity.

Hess Selected For Scholarship

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — Jayne Hess of Gettysburg, Pa., a senior at Pennsylvania State, was named the recipient of the 1993-1994 American Agricultural Editors Association (AAEA) Scholarship by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

AAEA member, Jersey Journal editor and Penn State alumna Lynn Ketterer Bell, winner of a drawing at last year's AAEA convention, selected Penn State to administer the scholarship, which is sponsored by Zeneca Ag Products.

Hess is majoring in Agricultural Sciences, with minors in dairy science and agricultural communications. Raised on a 200-head dairy farm in Gettysburg, she would like to work in dairy marketing and public relations after graduating next year.

In addition to receiving accolades from her professors, Hess was congratulated by Zeneca Ag Products, which sponsored the $2,000 scholarship.

Estate Planning Seminar Set

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. — Family traditions are practiced and passed down through generations. Attention needs to be paid to the property and possessions that accompany those traditions. The family farm, where everyone gathers for holidays, will it be in the family when the farmer has gone to meet his maker? Will the agribusiness be able to continue without interruption if one of the principal owners should die unexpectedly?

Property values in the Washington corridor have escalated so much that land once purchased for $200 an acre could be worth $20,000 or $200,000 an acre. Estate taxes would be due to the Internal Revenue Service within nine months of the land's transfer.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service and the Farm Credit banks are offering farm, woodland, greenhouse and nursery owners an opportunity to learn about estate planning at two upcoming seminars. The seminar will be offered at two locations. The first will be December 2 at The Columbia Inn in Columbia and December 3 at the Howard Johnson Plaza Hotel, Hagerstown. The program will begin at 9 a.m. and finish at 4 p.m.

Each preregistered participant will receive an estate planning workbook. The registration fee includes the workbook and lunch. Individual registration is $40 while a couple or partnership is $75.

Checks should be made payable to: Extension Advisory Council and sent to Ag Seminar Series, c/o CES Carroll County Office, 700 Agricultural Center, Westminster, MD 21157. Early registration is encouraged because space is limited to 100 participants.

Seminar brochures are available from your local cooperative extension office. Phone numbers are listed under county government headings in the blue pages of the telephone directory.

Sheep Checkoff Legislation Passes

DENVER, Colo. — The Sheep Promotion, Research and information Act of 1994 recently passed the U.S. House and Senate, setting in motion a checkoff for the promotion of lamb and wool.

"This is the first step of many to empower this industry to create a more profitable future," said Pierce Miller, president of the American Sheep Industry Association. Miller said the legislation's passage capped more than six months of work by Congress and Association leaders. The bill faced strong opposition in Washington, D.C., from some members of the textile industry and some legislators who wanted to see major changes in all checkoff legislation.

Miller said the industry's victory is credited to a strong commitment of Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy (D-VT), House Agriculture Committee Chairman Kika de la Garza (D-TX), Republican Whip Sen. Alan Simpson (R-WY), and ranking member congressman Pat Roberts (R-KS). "These legislators personally led the efforts to pass the legislation," Miller said. There were 18 original cosponsors in the Senate and 23 cosponsors in the House.The bill passed both Senate and House by unanimous consent and will now go to President Clinton for his signature.

The legislation will allow individuals involved in the sheep industry nationwide to vote in referendum to put the checkoff on lamb and wool into effect. The referendum will likely be in late 1995, according to sheep industry leaders. USDA will announce the date in the coming months as part of the rule-making process.

The checkoff would assess sales of lamb and wool, both domestic and imported, and would replace the industry's promotion program lost with the phase-out of the Wool Act in 1996. Lamb would be assessed at 1 cent per pound, domestic wool at 2 cents per pound (grease basis), and imported wool top and textiles at 2 cents per pound (clean basis).

"The inclusion of imported products is a strong and decisive move by the industry to better finance our promotion efforts by including all beneficiaries in the U.S. promotion efforts," Miller said. "We secured a good, solid bill to authorize a checkoff for the industry. We were able to secure the majority of provisions set forth by the board in the final bill."

About $6 million annually is projected to be raised by the import assessments, adding to the domestic producers' contribution of about $7 million for a total of approximately $13 million annually for lamb and wool promotion.

The checkoff proposal would create a sheep industry promotion board with members appointed by the secretary of agriculture from nominations of certified state organizations. Appointees will include lamb feeder and importer representatives.

Pesticide Disposal Program Under Way

WESTMINSTER, (Chester Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of agriculture is in the third year of a program to dispose of canceled, suspended, or unusable pesticides of farms. Chester County has been selected in 1995 to participate in this program along with Berks County and several others.

Chemsweep is designed for farmers, nurseries, greenhouses, mushroom producers, and Christmas tree growers. Anyone who produces an agricultural commodity is eligible. Pesticide dealers are not included in this program, or any product labeled for homeowner use. This program is free to all eligible participates. It is being paid for by the chemical registration fees paid to the state.

Any pesticide with an EPA registration number or prior UDSA ID number will be accepted. This includes silvex, 2,4,5,-T and dinoseb. PDA will accept unlabeled material as long as it can be identified as a pesticide by the PDA pesticide laboratory. The more information you can supply about the unknown, the better chance of identifying the product. Please do not mix or transport the pesticides. This will complicate the process. The products are more easily and inexpensively disposed of properly if they are kept separate from one another.

Registration forms for this program will be sent to Chester County participants in several weeks. If you do not get a form, please call the Chester County extension office at (610) 696-3500k and request a copy. Please do not photocopy the form because they are color coded according to the county. Deadline for registration is December 31.

Pesticides will be picked up in late 1995 from their storage location by a hazardous waste disposal company through PDA.

For more information, contact the Chester County extension office at (610) 696-3500.

Implanted Growth Promotants For Beef Cattle, Part 2

What Implantable Products Are Available For Cattle?

Editor's Note: The safety of beef from cattle implanted with growth promotants was discussed in Part 1 of this article. Now, in Part 2, application of such implants will be discussed.

Lowell L. Wilson
Professor Of Animal Science
Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The active ingredients in different implantable products and the animals for which they have been approved are presented in Table 2.1.

Implants are categorized as natural steroid, synthetic steroid-like, and nonsteroid compounds. Although most cattle producers are familiar with the correct use of implants, three factors must be emphasized: (1) Implants should be used only in those animals and in those dosages which have been approved and are recommended on the product label; (2) Each producer should develop an "implant strategy" for the use of these products within his/her own system; (3) "Doubling-up" implants (using two products simultaneously or implanting too frequently) is usually a waste of money and can decrease animal performance and/or carcass quality.

Common Mistakes And Corrective Measures

Because implants act much like hormones, their use represents replacement or supplementation of hormones.

Castrated males produce little natural estrogen (female hormone), and their androgen (male hormone) production is low. Therefore, estrogens are the primary and androgen the secondary hormones to be replaced or supplemented in steers.

In heifers, androgen level is very low, and estrogens fluctuate. Therefore, androgen production is the primary hormone and estrogens the secondary hormones to be replaced or supplemented in heifers.

All of the companies manufacturing growth-promotant implants have developed excellent instructional materials that should be reviewed by any individual who implants cattle. Almost anyone can insert implants, but it is easy to make mistakes that render the implant ineffective.

Table 2.2 summarizes problems observed in misusing implants, the probable causes, and how these mistakes can be remedied. Basically, the person doing the implanting must not work too quickly, must place the implant in the proper position (middle third of the ear from head to tip), and must use sanitary procedures with both ear and implanting equipment.

Growth And Carcass Changes

Implant side effects such as stagginess, bulling, and vaginal prolapse have been reported. While there is individual variability in how animals metabolize compounds administered through implanting, adverse side effects such as these usually are due to poor implanting technique.

For example, if an implant is crushed or placed too close to the base of the ear, the level of hormone in the animal will be increased immediately due to a high early absorption rate. If implants are placed in the cartilage, form abscesses, or have pellets missing, a low level of circulating compound will result.

This wide variation of hormone level among individuals within a group can lead to bulling and riding problems. Again, this is not the fault of the product, but rather of the manner in which it was implanted.

Under recommended usage, practically every implant will provide a 5- to 25-percent increase in average daily gain in most types of cattle. Increases in feed-conversion efficiency are less, usually ranging from 5 to 15 percent. There may be an increase in appetite, but even if feed consumption is not increased — such as in a controlled, limit-feeding situation — there should still be an increase in growth rate. The increase in feed-conversion efficiency may be nill or negligible.

Growth-promoting implants act by diverting nutrients within the animal's body to muscle deposition and by extending the animal's growth period. Although meat from implanted cattle seems to have less fat, the same amount is simply distributed throughout an increased amount of available muscle tissue, giving the appearance of a leaner meat. If implanted and nonimplanted animals of similar frame size are slaughtered at the same weight and compared as to carcass quality grade (marbling), implanted cattle usually grade lower. However, if slaughtered at the same compositional endpoint (fat thickness, for example), carcass quality grade usually does not differ. Some studies have indicated increases in average daily gain of up to 25 percent and a $40 per head return over cost from the use of implants. Average return over cost is $5 to $15 per head.

Nonsteroid anabolic agent
Ralgro	Mallinckrodt Veterinary	36 mg zeranol	All cattle

[a]It is recommended that bulls intended for breeding purposes not be implanted with any product since there may be interference with normal sexual development and subsequent fertility level, however, recent research with Ralgro and Synovex-C indicates implanting heifer calves does not decrease subsequent fertility in them

[b]Strict adherence to use of products only in approved beef cattle classes and weights is essential (read the product label)

Composting Training Sessions To Be Held

CREAMERY, (Montgomery Co.) — A Master Composter training series will be offered again this year by Montgomery County Cooperative Extension's Recycling Education Program.

The training includes three Thursday evening sessions from 6:45 p.m. to 8:45 p.m. on Oct. 20, 27, and Nov. 3, and will cover in-depth information on the biology of composting, composting techniques, troubleshooting, and alternatives to composting. It will take place at the Upper Dublin Township building on Loch Alsh Road in Upper Dublin.

At the final session on Saturday, Nov. 5, a compost park will be constructed. Compost parks are working exhibits of various types of compost bins complete with detailed signs about the bins, and brochures on how to compost. The parks are maintained by Master Composters.

The training is free, but registration is required. To register, call the organic waste Recycling Education program at (610) 454-1245.

Conservation Tillage Event Dec. 14

CARLISLE, (Cumberland Co). — National environmental issues and practical information to make conservation tillage profitable will be major topics at this year's six-state Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference. The twenty-first annual event is set Dec. 14 at the Embers Inn and Convention Center near Carlisle.

Specific topics will deal with "rock-solid" practical and profitable no-till ideas to use next spring, clean water, soil fertility, new herbicides, and workable machinery attachments. Farmers from Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia are invited to attend.

Sponsoring organizations include Cooperative extension; the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, and local conservation districts in the participating states, with assistance from interested agribusiness representatives. More than 400 persons are expected.

Activities on Dec. 14 will get under way at 8 a.m. with free coffee and doughnuts, plus opportunities to visit industry exhibits. The educational program will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., with an hour and a half off for lunch and another chance to chat with exhibitors.

Tickets for the noon lunch are available at $6 each from cooperative extension county offices throughout the Mid-atlantic area. They must be purchased in advance and no later than Dec. 5.

Speakers and topics for the morning program are as follows:

- "30 Rock-Solid, Highly Practical and Profitable No-Till Ideas of Use Next "Spring"—William F. Rohrs, coordinator, Conservation Action Project, Maumee Valley Resource Conservation and Development Area, Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Defiance, Ohio.
- "Clean Water Without Rigid Regulation"—Dr. Richard S. Fawcett, Farm Journal environment specialist, Huxley, Iowa.
- "Soil Fertility Programs" (including manure and fertilizer inputs)—farmer panel.
- "Where to Find the Profits in Conservation Farming"—Roland P. Freund, area farm management agent, Capitol region, Penn State Extension, Carlisle.
- "New Chemistry of Herbicides: Making Conservation Tillage More Friendly to the Environment"—Dick Fawcett, Farm Journal.

An informal discussion session will close out the afternoon for knowledge seekers who wish to remain.

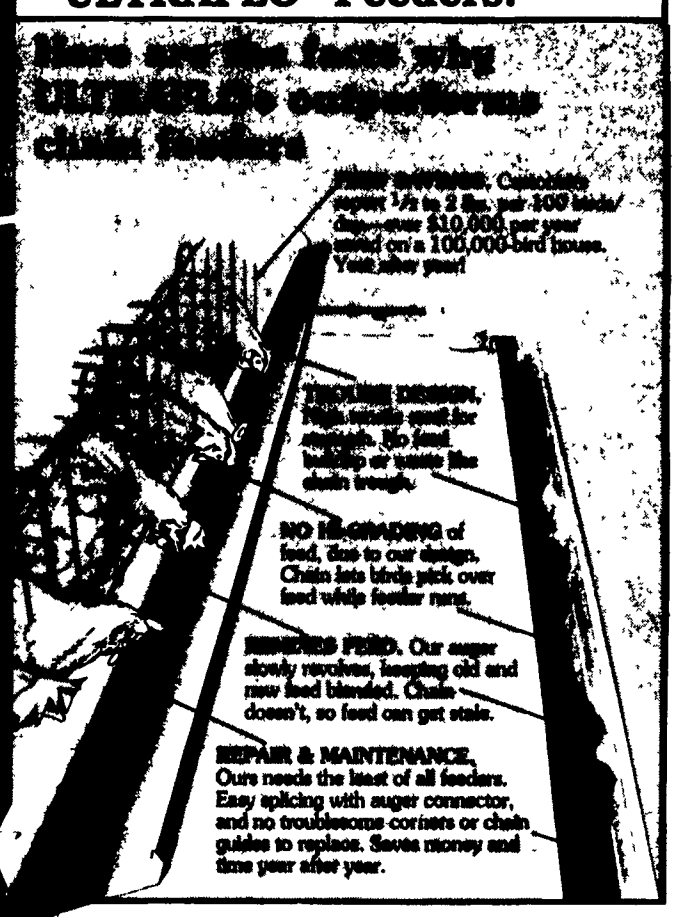
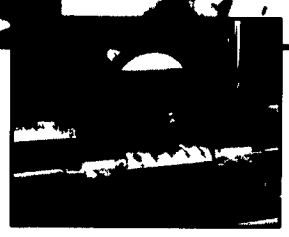
CHORE-TIME Ultraflo® feeders

More Than 275 Ultraflo® Systems Have Been Sold In The Northeast Since 1985 - That's Over 22 Million Birds!

Over 80% of the nation's top egg producers have already switched to Chore-Time cages with ULTRAFLO® Feeders!*



NO RE-GRADING of feed, due to our design. Chain lets birds pick over feed while feeder runs.
REMIXES FEED. Our auger slowly revolves, keeping old and new feed blended. Chain doesn't, so feed can get stale.
REPAIR & MAINTENANCE. Ours needs the least of all feeders. Easy splicing with auger connector, and no troublesome corners or chain guides to replace. Saves money and time year after year.



SIMPLE OPERATION. "Push-Pull" Power Units with low HP motor are located along the feeder line as needed. Have hardened steel gears for trouble-free life. Microprocessor control lets you program feeding time to the second.

EASY AUGER CONNECTOR. Allows fast and simple installation, also quick and easy repair of auger if ever necessary. Auger and trough are both warranted 5 full years. Chain feeders are not.

Egg producers have been putting up with obsolete chain feeders far too long. Now there's a better way: Chore-Time's proven ULTRAFLO Cage Feeding System. Since introduction, more than 80% of the top 54 egg producers* have gone to ULTRAFLO. A lot of smaller ones have too.

They've all looked at the advantages and chosen ULTRAFLO. That's because it makes them more profitable. Total egg production and egg size—these are the best benefits of our complete feeding system.

Why not check out the facts for yourself? Contact us now—or ask any producer who owns ULTRAFLO.

Because the only negative comments about our feeding system come from our competition—not from our customers.

Implantable Products

Carcass quality usually does not decrease if a proper implant strategy is used.

Implant Stragegies

If growth-promoting implants are used according to recommendations and label instructions, each implant given sequentially throughout an animal's lifetime will result in an increase in growth and feed efficiency and have some effect on carcass characteristics. Subsequent implants may stimulate growth less than the initial one, especially if the proper implant strategy is not used.

Manufacturers of implantable products have different implant strategies, ranging from aggressive to conservative. An aggressive strategy might call for two sequential implants of Revalor-S after weaning, the first administered as the feeder cattle enter the feedlot, the second 90 days later.

However, if high carcass grade is important, only one Revalor-S should be used, preferably 110 to 120 days prior to slaughter. For best results, the implant strategy should be based on counting days backward from the planned slaughter date.

Trenbolone acetate, with or without estradiol (Revalor-S or Finaplix, respectively), has been demonstrated to decrease carcass quality more than other products when administered too close to slaughter. If carcass quality is an important characteristic for the cattle feeder — and in almost all cases it should be — then special attention must be given to not implanting cattle with Revalor-S or Finaplix too close to time of slaughter.

Also, for most products, the economic benefit will be reduced if animals are implanted too close to slaughter, since the product will be active for fewer days. Conversely, much of benefit from implanting is obtained within a relatively short time after administration. Again, implant strategy should be planned with the intended slaughter date in mind.

Other factors to consider in planning implant strategy are:

- If animals are on a low plane of nutrition, there will be less increase in actual pounds of gain, and the return from using implants will be less. If rate of gain is very low, there may be no benefit from implanting.
- If ownership is to be retained until slaughter, preweaning implanting will be less important than if the calves are sold at weaning (but implanting is still advisable).
- If calves are sold at weaning, it is important to implant the calf in the suckling phase to increase sale weight.
- There may be some slight sacrifice in postweaning gain and feed-conversion efficiency if implants are made prior to weaning, but this does not mean implants should not be used before as well as after weaning. Remember, implant strategies based on the intended slaughter date are the most effective.

It is important that we continue to inform the public about the human and animal safety of technology such as implantable growth promotants. Otherwise, if we cannot increase efficiency and product quality by applying technology, we are severely limited in the improvements we can make in our production systems. This is important to the sustainability of our industry.

High's CH Mystic Wins Angus Honors At KILE

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — CH Mystic, exhibited by Casey High, dominated the Angus heifer competition at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) late last week, picking up grand champion female.

CH Mystic 12077567 (S: WK Future 11439558, D: Mt. Valley Sapphire Kate, 10935084) won champion of the early senior heifer calves class, a September calf. Casey, Lititz, won a grand championship that proved difficult to decide for Jim Hough, show judge.

Hough, director of cattle operations for Longaberger Farm, Dresden, Ohio, chose Indian Creek Sue 340; exhibited by Rich Wilson of Indian Creek Farm, Stahlstown, as reserve champion heifer. Wilson, who picked up premier breeder and exhibitor awards, showed the April junior yearling heifer to championship. The April 1993 calf has a +12007898 registration (S: Ellanin Sky Diver +10420675, D: Prospect Eiroline 75U, 10873823).

A 2-year-old bull that shows "a lot of balance for its age," which Hough decided as class champion proves "a credit to have bulls this big and this sound" was chosen grand champion at KILE. The bull, Mt. Valley Dutchman 11770636 (S: TC Stockman 11300211, D: Julies Jewel 10766015), a April 1992 bull, was shown by Abe Flory, Mt. Valley Angus, Lititz.

Reserve bull was awarded to Weaverland Valley HP31 11927134 (S: PS High Pockets 10123768, D: LeBus Errolline 9W 10902045), a March 1993 bull, exhibited by Kristin Chupp for Weaverland Valley Farms, New Holland.

DOES MANURE HAVE VALUE?

John H. Schwartz, Ph.D.
Lancaster County
Extension Director

Ever since I have been an agricultural extension agent, I have been asked by poultry farmers: what is poultry manure worth?

The usual answer is taking the nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium concentrations in a ton of manure and multiplying them by the current cost of those nutrients in commercial fertilizer.

However, the current nutrient management law has created a new debate. The question is: does manure have any value? There are those who believe manure has no value, is a contaminated waste that needs to be disposed of in an environmentally and sanitarily safe manner, and there should be an economic cost to be paid by the producer.

On the other hand, many agriculturalists argue manure is a commodity that has economic value, while others are undecided. The answer to this question depends on your philosophy, manure handling system, quality and quantity being produced, and marketing skills.

First, your philosophy. Do you view manure as a commodity or a waste that needs to be disposed of? A commodity is anything useful that is bought and sold. Depending on your view will determine the value you receive for the manure or the cost you will pay to have it disposed of. The value of manure is determined by the nutrient density and ratio, moisture content, amount of further processing, ease of application and the demand for it. The buyer wants convenience, consistency, results and a fair price.

As the nutrient management regulations are being developed, many farmers need to think about their manure management practices and make decisions on how they will handle manure in the future. The law will allow several years for new manure management practices to be developed. However, the sharp farm manager will take advantage of every day he has and start making plans to implement nutrient management on the farm. For many farmers, this will involve looking at ways to increase the economic value of their manure. Some of the ways will include producing a dryer manure through better management, upgrading of their watering systems, and installing fans to dry manure to a lower moisture level.

Other ways may include running manure through a hammer mill and screening it, composting, pelleting, adding nutrients to improve the nutrient ratio, and purchasing equipment to spread manure on other farmers' fields.

The important thing is keep up to date on various methods being tried by farmers and select the ones best for your operation.

In addition, farmers need to voice their support for increased funding for research in developing new and economical methods for handling manure and encourage tax incentives and reduced government paperwork in implementing nutrient managment practices such as paper, leaves, and grass clippings.

Work for the passage of positive laws and regulations that will encourage farmers and other businesses to invest in capital in developing manure handling and processing facilities and will insure a fair pricing system for the products developed for the market place.

Remember, you the farmer determine if manure has value. You make this determination from your philosophy, manure handling system, and marketing plan. Thus, the answer to the question: does manure have value? is yes, maybe, and no. You the farmer determine which answer is correct for your farm.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "In the end, the only people who fail are those who do not try."

Farm Credit Announces Scholarships

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Figures released at fiscal year-end show an increased price of Polled Hereford seedstock at nearly $300 per head over last year.

"The American Polled Hereford Association's fiscal year ended August 31," said Ed Bible, association president, "with clear evidence of increased producer demand for breeding cattle."

Females sold at public auction tallied a $299 per lot increase over the 1992-93 year. Bull values jumped $192, with overall value per lot rising $272. Total grossed increased nearly $400,000.

"As Polled Hereford breeders continue their increased efforts to add more profit margin to the beef industry, it's clear that progress is being made," Bible said. "Through the use of all the tools available, including EPDs, visual appraisal pedigree and feedlot and carcass performance, they've focused on producing sound, optimum-performing cattle with the basics for money-making production in mind."

Personal Protective Equipment

Pesticides can enter the body through four common routes -- dermal, inhalation, oral, and through the eyes. Dermal absorption, or movement through the skin is the most common route of pesticide entry into the body. Studies estimate that over 90% of all exposure to pesticides is through skin contact. Inhalation, or breathing the pesticide into the lungs, is more common when using pesticides in a powder or spray formulation. Oral exposure occurs when a pesticide is accidentally splashed into the mouth during mixing or while cleaning equipment. Eye exposure is most common when a pesticide is splashed into the eyes or the eyes are rubbed with hands or clothing contaminated with pesticides.

Most exposures to pesticides occur during mixing and loading or returning into areas that have been treated with pesticides. Reducing exposure to pesticides is largely a matter of using common sense. If you are using a pesticide, or will be in an area where pesticides have been applied, wear, at least, the minimum protective clothing prescribed on the label. Minimum protective clothing includes, a long sleeve shirt, long pants or coveralls, gloves, socks and appropriate footwear. Glasses or goggles are not necessarily required as minimum protective clothing; however, they should be worn when there is a chance that pesticides will contaminate the eyes. Specific definitions regarding PPE can be found on pages 82 and 83 of "The Worker Protection Standard for Agricultural Pesticides -- How to Comply" manual.

One of the changes that is a direct result of the implementation of the Environmental Protection Agencies Worker Protection Standard (WPS) regulation is the improvement of pesticide label information with regard to protective clothing requirements. It is estimated that as many as 9,000 product labels are affected by WPS. Each new product label will list the specific personal protective equipment (PPE) to be worn when the product is being used, or when the potential for exposure to the product exists. Even those who are exempt from the WPS must wear the required protective clothing, if the specific protective clothing requirement appears as part of the regular label language, which are the parts of the label other than the "Agricultural Use Requirement" section.

When PPE is required under the WPS, the employer must:

- Provide the PPE to each early-entry worker or handler
- Clean and maintain PPE
- Make sure that each person wears and uses the PPE correctly
- Provide each person a clean place to put on, take off, and store the PPE
- Take action, if necessary, to prevent heat related illness while PPE is being worn
- Provide soap, single use towels, and water to each person at the end of the handling activity when PPE is removed; and
- Not allow any person to wear home or take home PPE contaminated, unless proper instruction has been given regarding the washing and care of PPE.

The type of PPE necessary depends upon the specific application and the type of application equipment being used. Certain exemptions to PPE requirements are listed on pages 85-87 of "The Worker Protection Standard for Agricultural Pesticides--How to Comply" manual. Although every pesticide is different and the label should be consulted to determine the PPE requirements for each chemical, the general rules apply for the different pesticide toxicity levels found in the table below.

Proper cleaning and maintenance of PPE is just as important as making sure that PPE is available to early-entry workers and handlers. Employers must instruct workers and handlers to:

- Keep pesticide-contaminated PPE away from other clothing or laundry, and wash it separately.
- If PPE will be reused, clean it before each day of reuse according to the instructions from the PPE manufacturer. If instructions are unavailable, wash PPE with detergent in hot water.
- Thoroughly wash and dry all PPE before it is reused or stored.
- Store clean PPE separate from personal clothing and away from pesticide contaminated areas PPE that has been soaked or otherwise heavily contaminated should be discarded.

In regard to the proper care of respiratory PPE, employers must:

- Replace dust/mist respirator filters:

- when breathing becomes difficult.
- if the filter is damage or torn.
- whenever the respirator manufacturer or pesticide labeling says to replace them.
- at the end of each day's work period if no other instructions are available.

- Replace gas-and-vapor-removing respirator cartridges or canisters:

- at the first sign of odor, taste or irritation.
- when the respirator manufacturer or pesticide labeling says to replace them.
- at the end of each day's work period if no other instructions are available.

Wearing protective clothing may seem like a burden, and be uncomfortable in warmer weather when most applications are made. CONSIDER THE MANY CONCRETE ADVANTAGES!
"A GOOD JULY RAIN GROWS A LOT OF GRAIN!"
With The Prospect Of A Good Corn Crop, It's Time For Many Producers To Make Decisions Concerning Storage.

16'x68'
about 10,000 bu. cap.
Shelled Corn
Poured Concrete
No Used Silos!
No Rebuilt Silos!
No Preowned Silos!!
In order to avoid hauling and drying costs, let us build a corn storage unit to preserve your valuable grain at 20%-30% moisture.
To keep your stored corn bright and yellow, you must protect it from oxygen and heat. Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel.
Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement.
BEFORE SPENDING A LOT OF MONEY FOR ENERGY TO DRY YOUR CORN, YOU WILL DO WELL TO CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF OUR POURED CONCRETE SILOS...
To unload your corn, we can install the simple auger system, the Laidig 43 unloader, or the Flying Dutchman. Let's discuss the options, and what is best for your situation.

BARN CLEANERS

Built to clean faster... built to last longer!

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

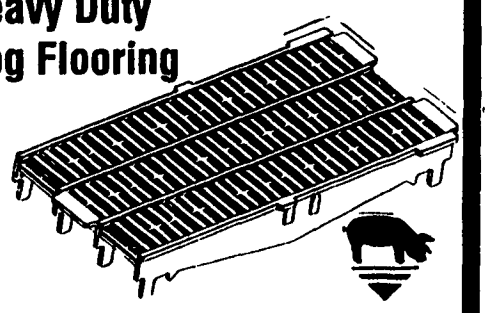
REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION? CHECK OUT Polygrate™

Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.

Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.

- ◆ POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?

- ◆ More piglets survive until weaning
- ◆ Less splay/spraddle leg problems
- ◆ Heavier piglets at weaning
- ◆ Better conditioned sows at weaning

Look At Whole Picture Before Prescribing Treatment For Flock Health Problems

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — If we lived in a perfect world, according to a renowned poultry veterinarian, to simply diagnose a disease would mean dialing the phone to call the nearest veterinarian. The vet would arrive, look at a computer printout, prescribe a drug, and that would be it.

"Unfortunately, in the poultry industry, we don't live in a perfect world," said Dr. Robert Owens, director of poultry health and veterinary services for Hubbard Farms, Walpole, N.H.

Owens spoke to about 30 poultry industry representatives on Monday at the Poultry Management and Health Seminar at Kreider Farms Restaurant.

To solve a poultry health problem, according to Owens, the birds' entire growout, including the past history of the flock, the current history, the environment, the feed, the housing, and the growth charts must be carefully analyzed before tests can be made to determine what the problem is. And the poultry veterinarian — not to mention the flock manager — has a wealth of tools available to make a diagnosis before any drugs or other treatment are needed.

"First and foremost, definitive diagnoses can only be made with the support of a fully equipped and staffed diagnostic laboratory," said Owens.

In New Hampshire, the labs have been closed. In fact, according to Owens, on the many talks he gives, he tries to garner support for states to implement a fully equipped and staffed poultry lab to support the industries. Fortunately, Pennsylvania has a laboratory.

But for poultry producers and those who manage the birds, according to Owens, to accurately prescribe treatment, they must first look at the whole picture.

"I think we have to take off the blinders that some of us seem to have on, and we need to try and look at the whole picture when we're trying to diagnose a problem on the farm," he said.

The following tools are available to the producer to make a clear, accurate prescription of bird health problems on the farm:

• Past history. What has happened to the birds on the farm in the past? Examine previous disease challenges, including MG, ascites, SE, and other diseases. Was management of the previous flock up to par? What are the disease challenges in the area? (LT is no problem in New Hampshire, but is a factor in Pennsylvania.) What was the liveability of the previous flock? Pullet breeders (most of Owens work is done at the breeder level) should sit down with the manager and find out about the past flock to see what to focus in on.

• Current history. For hens, what is the size of the house? Type of house? Stocking density? Ventilation? Check to see if these factors are functioning correctly. What about the feed and water system? (Owen said that water quality is being, in large part, ignored — a vital factor in flock health. "It really turns the flock around, just by improving the water quality," he said.) What has been the cleanout history? What about the room temperature — is it too hot or cold for birds? "It's important to put the whole picture together," said Owen. For broilers and pullets, what is the breeder performance record? (A standard form from Hubbard Farms keeps careful records of bird and management data.) A vital factor to look at is mortality, both 7- and 14-day. The Hubbard Farms mortality guide is 0.9 percent at 7 days and less than 1.6 percent at 14 days. What is the 20-week mortality? Weight and uniformity are other factors. What are the 4-week and 20-week weights? "You can make or break a chicken with what you have at the 4-week weight," said the veterinarian. For Hubbard breeders, the 4-week weight is .9 pounds. For breeders, look at the age at housing. Weight at housing is another factor. What is the 20-week uniformity? What is the morality at 25 weeks? This factor should be between 0.25 percent and 0.35 percent per week.

Owen said that clinical signs must be examined, such as evidence of diarrhea, passing feed, or snick.

"One thing I think we need to pay more attention to are these respiratory noises," he said. "When you go into a chicken house, if you just take your time and sit and be quiet, the chickens can tell you a lot of things."

For Owen, the rule of thumb is that the snick will develop 3-5 days after vaccination and should be over about 7-9 days after vaccination.

• Physical examination. "You cannot diagnose a problem with chickens down the farm unless you go into the chicken house," he said. "Let the chickens tell you what's wrong." Owen said producers should walk around the entire house, around the edges on a pullet house or up on the slats in a hen house, to see what is going on with the chickens. The sick birds will tend to flock on the sides of the houses. Also, pick the chickens up, and look at their fleshing, the size of the keel, frame size, and sexual uniformity. "Get out into the house and get around and look."

• Post-mortem exam. Owen said to do "a thorough exam. It has to be a hands-on thing — you have to do it and do it and do it until you get good at it." Producers should check the sick birds and healthy birds alike and compare them. Samples are essential, including those necessary for histopathology, cultures, bacterial sampling, and serology.

"It's important to put the whole picture together," said Dr. Robert Owen, director of poultry health and veterinary services at Hubbard Farms, Walpole, N.H., right. Owen describes some of the elements on the Hubbard Farms Pullet Performance Record to Dr. Paul Patterson, assistant professor, poultry science, Penn State.

• Serology. Titer samples are only useful as an aid to diagnosis. This tool must be used to "put the whole picture together," he said. A vet must have both acute and convalescent titers. Generally, a vet should use the geometric mean titer (GMT) or the coefficient of variation (CV) to make an accurate serology. Also, vets need to be aware of sampling errors and to correlate serology to clinical signs. "You can't take a snapshot of titer and believe you know what is going on. A lot of times the serology doesn't correlate with what we're seeing in the field. Use all tools available to you.

"So much nowadays we look at a computer printout snapshot of things. And I think that's wrong. We have to look at the whole history of the flock to tell what's going on," he said.

Owen said these tools can be used in all types of poultry operations.

"I use these tools anywhere I go, whether it's China, South Africa, south Alabama, or Timbuktu — it's the same every place I go."

Centre County Student Has Champion Junior Barrow

Beth McAllister, an eleventh grader form Centre Hall, took the ribbon with her crossbred swine, "Keith." The champion barrow was bred by Keith Bard of Portage.

Beth is an active member of the Centre Hall 4-H Ag Club, who has been showing at KILE for about five years. She is the daughter of Barbara and Scott McAllister, who operate a small farm in Potter Township. When Beth is not showing pigs, she rides horses or competes in track and field with the Penns Valley Rams.

Fourteen-year-old Derek Earnhart, of Albion, Ind., showing a Hampshire, captured the reserve barrow on-foot ribbon.

Derek is an eighth grader at Churubusco Junior/Senior High School. He's a member of the Eager Beavers 4-H Club who shows swine from his family's farm. Derek and his parents, Steve and Deb Earnhart, operate "Earnhart Hampshires," a 110-acre swine farm in Green Township.

Santa Gertrudis Displayed

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Members of the Northeast Santa Gertrudis Association sponsored an exhibit of a Santa Gertrudis cow and calf at this year's Ag Progress Days.

Gene and Linda Moose of Chapel-Ridge Farm in Gettysburg provided the pair. Others assisting at the three-day event were Marguerite Bucher and James Quanbeck of Ribeye Ranch, club president. The event provides a good forum to showcase red cattle.

Members of the NESGA and guests gathered at the Moose farm for a Field Day during the summer. Philip Smith of Teepee Ranch, Bloomington, Ind., who represents region six on the board of directors of Santa Gertrudis Breeders International, answered questions and gathered information from members present. He was accompanied by Dick Vondenhuevel of Sydney, Ohio.

Smith explained the classification system and the recent change to voluntary classification. He stated that SGBI is now operating in the black. He also stressed the registration fee for the breed is much lower than those of two other major beef breeds. The members present expressed a desire that the advertising fee, instituted by the board of directors as a two-year program, be continued only if approved by the membership through an open vote.

Moose displayed a 4-year-old Santa Gertrudis bull and explained the process of bull selection. Linda Moose did the same for heifers.

A pen of feeder bulls was also displayed. Santa Gertrudis cattle and Santa Gertrudis crosses are extremely hardy and disease resistant. Guest were informed of the breed's natural immunity to pinkeye, a disease costly to cattlemen this summer.

Prizes in a judging contest were donated by southern States and Chapel-Ridge Farms. The company sent two representatives to explain new products, including a pasture cattle antibiotic.

Gene Moose took the 30 who attended on a hay ride into the pasture to see a mature herd and to view working facilities at another farm. The Mooses have about 160 head of cattle, mostly [illegible]

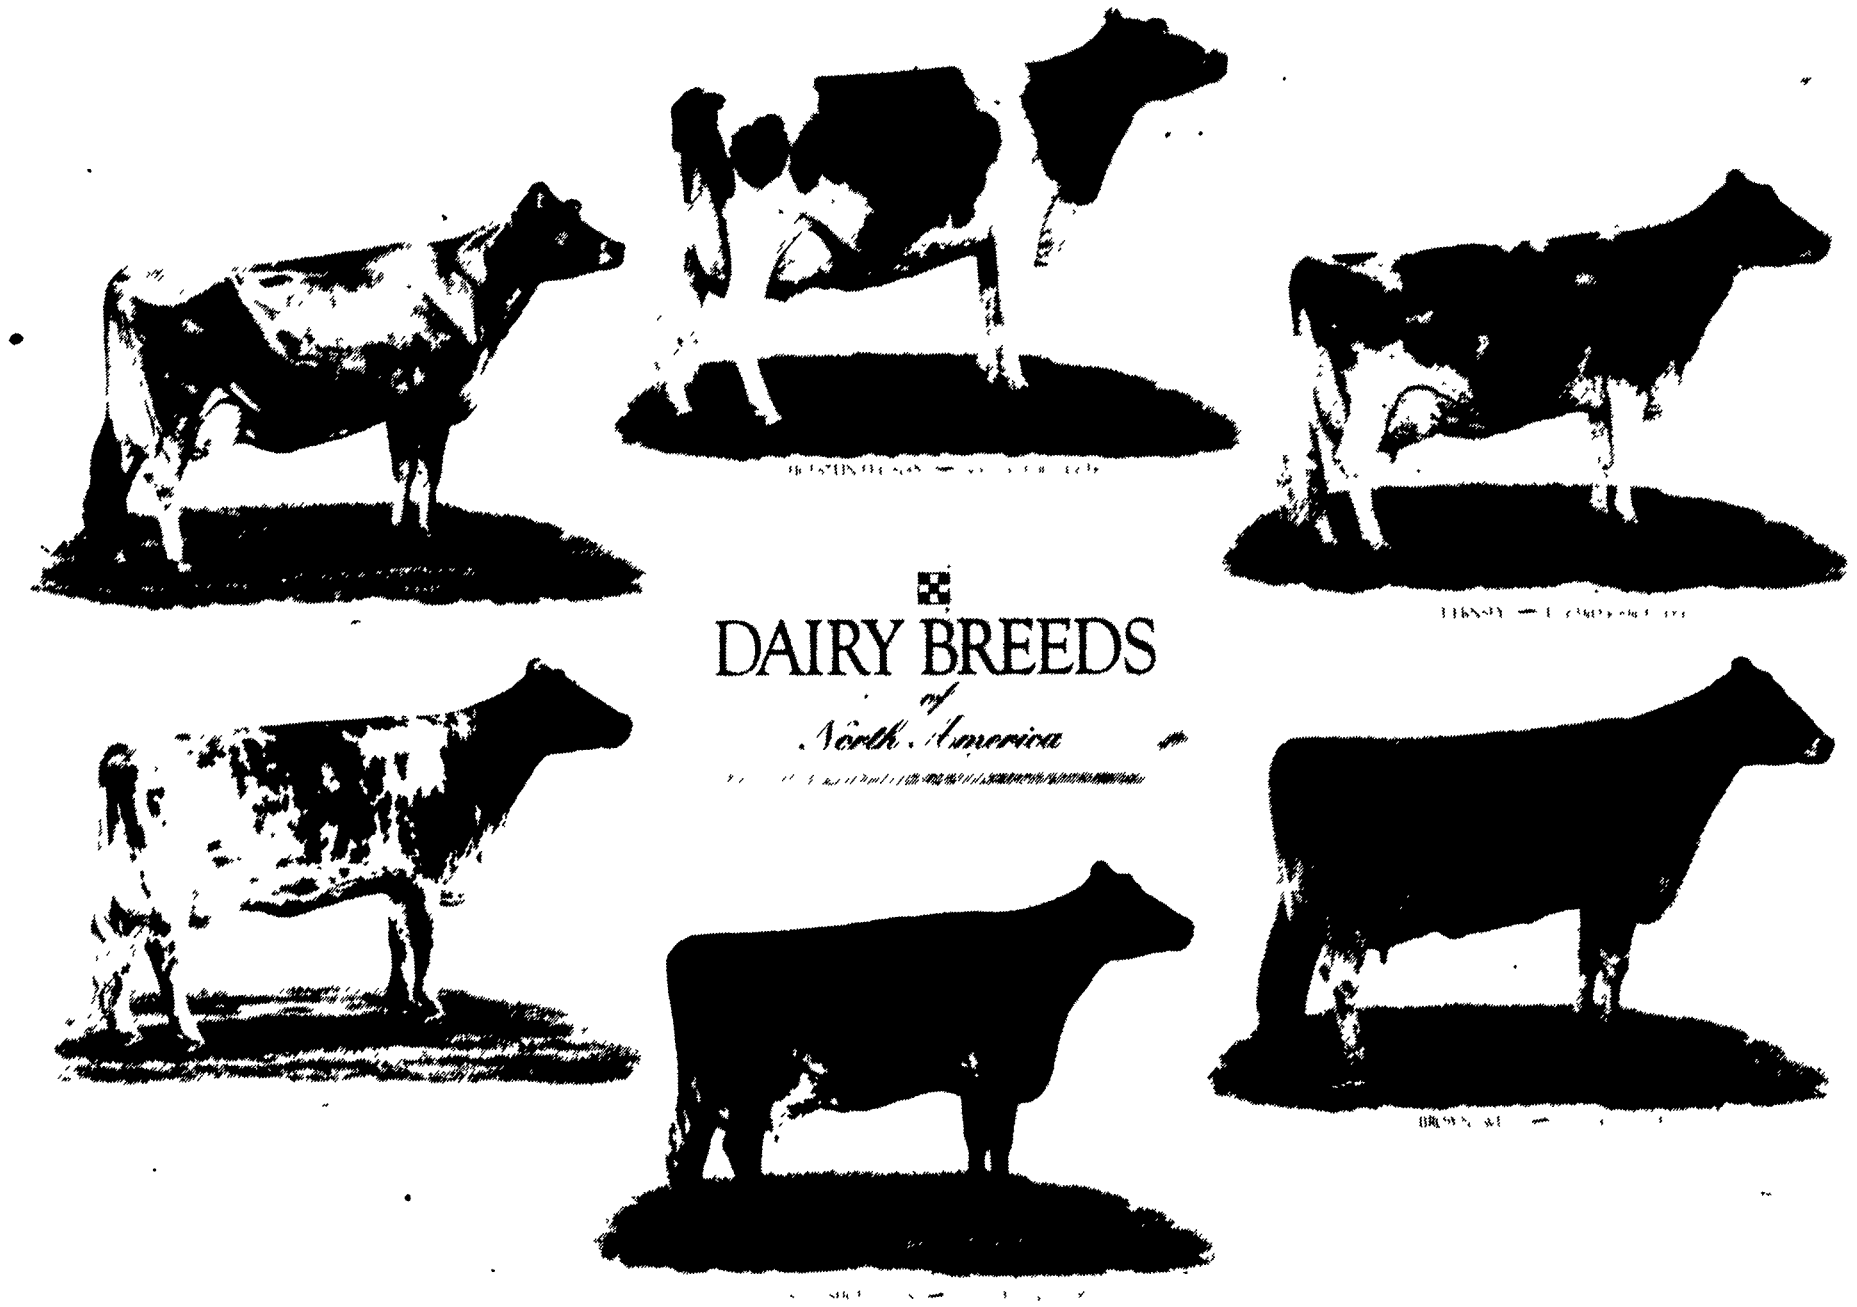
Purina Mills Recreates Classic Dairy Poster To Benefit Youth



ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Against the backdrop of the United States' largest dairy event, Purina Mills, Inc. will unveil a completely updated version of its classic poster representing the six popular North American dairy cow breeds. The poster, first issued by Purina Mills in 1962, has remained in demand for three decades. Purina Mills is revising the poster to show the overall improvements in dairy cow anatomy over the last 30 years.

The updated poster premiers at the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wisconsin. It features the work of rural American artist Bonnie Mohr, of Glencoe, Minnesota. Mohr, who also owns a dairy farm, is noted for her artistic and technical skill with farm animals. She was a natural choice to recreate the original poster, which is widely used in agricultural and veterinary education classes, says Purina Mills Dairy Marketing manager, Richard Poeppel.

"The original poster is nearly as popular today as it was 30 years ago, so we had high standards to meet," says Poeppel. "We wanted to show the beauty and strength of each dairy breed, but we also needed accurate renderings of ;the cows, for comparative study and classroom use. The search for an artist who could accomplish both goals led to Bonnie."

To Raise Funds for 4-H, FFA

At the October 4th unveiling, Purina Mills will announce plans to use the poster as a centerpiece of fund-raising activities for national and local 4-H and FFA activities. Local 4-H clubs and FFA chapters, in cooperation with independent Purina Mills dealers, will sell copies of the poster, with proceeds to benefit their local and national organizations.

"We're honored to take this next step in our long association with these two outstanding organizations," says Poeppel. "Together the 4-H and FFA help educate more than four million American youths each year about food production and the role of agriculture. The role of he poster meshes perfectly with the role of these organizations."

Cows representing each of the breeds—Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey Holstein-Friesian, Jersey and Milking Shorthorn—were chosen both for their physical traits and production abilities, says Poeppel.

"Each of the cows shown in the poster has the classic traits of her breed, and each is an outstanding milk producer," explains Poeppel. "The cows do not represent a theoretical ideal, but represent the best North American dairy cows. This is why they are a more valuable educational tool than a stylized 'perfect' cow."

Purina Mills will present signed copies of the poster to the owners of each cow at ceremonies at the World Dairy Expo, Tuesday, October 4. Each of the six breed associations, as well as the national 4-H and FFA organizations also will receive a signed copy of Mohr's painting of that breed's representative. The original paintings will be displayed at the 1994 World Dairy Expo and then at Purina Mills headquarters in St. Louis and at the company's research facility.

The poster is one of the series of events marking Purina Mills' 100th anniversary. Founded in 1894, Purina Mills is America's largest manufacturer of animal food and feed.

Conservation Tillage Event Dec. 14

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — National environmental issues and practical information to make conservation tillage profitable will be major topics at this year's six-state Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference. The twenty-first annual event is set Dec. 14 at the Embers Inn and Convention Center near Carlisle.

Specific topics will deal with "rock-solid" practical and profitable no-till ideas to use next spring, clean water, soil fertility, new herbicides, and workable machinery attachments. Farmers from Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia are invited to attend.

Sponsoring organizations include cooperative extension, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service and local conservation districts in the participating states, with assistance from interested agribusiness representatives. More than 400 persons are expected.

Activities on Dec. 14 will get under way at 8 a.m. with free coffee and doughnuts, plus opportunity to visit industry exhibits. The educational program will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., with an hour and a half off for lunch and another chance to chat with exhibitors.

Tickets for the noon lunch are available at $6 each from cooperative extension county offices throughout the Mid-Atlantic area. They must be purchased in advance and no later than Dec. 5.

Speakers and topics for the morning program are as follows:

• "30 Rock-Solid, Highly Practical and Profitable No-Till Ideas to Use Next Spring"—William F. Rohrs, coordinator, Conservation Action Project, Maumee Valley Resource Conservation and Development Area, Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Defiance, Ohio.

• "Clean Water Without Rigid Regulation"—Dr. Richard S. Fawcett, Farm Journal environment specialist, Huxley, Iowa.

• "Soil Fertility Programs" (including manure & fertilizer inputs)—farmer panel.

• "Where to Find the Profits in Conservation Farming"—Roland P. Freund, area farm management agent, capitol region, Penn State Extension, Carlisle.

• "New Chemistry of Herbicides: Making Conservation Tillage More Friendly to the Environment"—Dick Fawcett, Farm Journal.

The last three topics are 45-minute breakout sessions conducted simultaneously. They will be repeated after lunch, providing opportunity to attend two of the three sessions.

The final afternoon presentation is titled "Row Cleaners, Coulters, Zone Tillage, Planter/Drill Attachment Selection & Adjustments ... What Works? What Doesn't?" The speaker will be John A. Halderman, owner of the College Corner Implement Company at West College Corner, Ind.

An informal discussion session will close out the afternoon for knowledge seekers who wish to remain.

Pork Exports Continue To Increase
William R. Henning
Assoc. Prof. Animal Sciences
Penn State

Russia and the United States successfully resolved outstanding issues regarding U.S. pork exports to Russia during a recent visit by an contingent of Russian veterinarians. The Russians agreed to a USDA request to recognize the freezing of pork as inactivating any trichina larva in the meat. They currently require random pooled sampling to be done to demonstrate a safe product.

The Japanese market also continues to increase and has brought about unprecedented changes in the pricing structure of pork. Most of the pork exported to Japan is loin meat at about $1.25 — more than twice the price of hams on a wholesale basis. Some think the Japanese, who are very particular about quality, have skimmed the highest quality pork loins from the market, leaving a poorer quality and more variable product to be sold domestically at retail. While there is no data to support this, a walk-through of retail stores confirms the presence of a tremendous amount of variability in pork cuts.

Although exports are good for producers, we must remember that we need to assure the availability of high quality-pork for our own consumers.

Zero Tolerance Yields Zero Improvement
William R. Henning
Assoc. Prof. Animal Sciences
Penn State

Data collected by the American Meat Institute indicates that the USDA initiative, Zero Tolerance, designed to improve the safety of meat is not working. Implemented in response to the deaths caused by E. coli 0157:H7, this Food Safety Inspection Service (FSIS) has apparently failed at providing safer product for consumers. Under the Zero Tolerance program, the FSIS inspectors frantically look for any speck of visible contamination and, if anything is found, slow or stop the production line until carcasses are trimmed to their satisfaction.

Based on results of a survey of 15 major beef packing plants, American Meat Institute (AMI) President Patrick Boyle maintains that microbiological contamination has not been reduced under the Zero Tolerance program. In some cases, the program actually increased bacterial counts due to more handling and the increased time it took meats to reach the cooler. Additionally, attempts at carrying out Zero Tolerance has cost the beef industry an estimated $250 million in the past year alone. Some plants estimate that labor costs have increased by 25 percent.

One of the problems with zero tolerance is inconsistenty in its enforcement and, in some cases, blatant inspector retaliation against plants. AMI has asked U.S. senators to encourage USDA to develop a scientific approach to enforcing zero tolerance and to allow the industry to use carcass washes as an alternative to hand trimming. We can only hope that, with the help of the senate and pressure from the scientific community, FSIS will look at the inspection program on a scientific basis rather than on a cosmetic basis that merely makes themselves look good.

Beef Processors Still Trimming Fat
William R. Henning
Assoc. Prof. Animal Sciences
Penn State

In a recent survey, the American Meat Institute found that the production of close-trim boxed beef by major packers ran at nearly one-third of their total boxed-beef production during the first quarter of this year. While these packers report an increased demand for close-trimmed product, its higher initial price still remains a problem for some customers. However, a smaller market in the last few weeks has made it easier to sell this type of product, and once retailers conduct cutting tests they will learn for themselves the merits of buying close-trimmed beef.

Several major supermarket chains have converted completely to the close-trimmed product, while others are still evaluating it. As more packers choose a close-trimmed product, there will be more pressure from the buying side for leaner cattle.

Treadmill Exercise For Sheep
Keith A. Bryan
Instructor Dairy & Animal Science Penn State

More and more people today are breaking their sedentary habits and becoming more physically active. Why? Because exercise is good for you! Physical activity burns calories, increases cardiovascular endurance, increases lean body mass, and decreases body fat. The same holds true for the meat animals we produce. As sheep producers, we should have one common goal — to raise and market lambs that have a high percentage of lean body mass and a low percentage of fat.

Does exercising wethers, particularly lambs destined for market lamb shows, help us to attain this goal? Most of us would answer, Yes! Is exercise a currently accepted practice for commercially-produced slaughter lambs? No. The benefits are outweighed considerably for the drawbacks, namely cost. But what are the effects of exercise on production traits, specifically, carcass characteristics?

In general, lambs that have been subjected to forced exercise are slightly leaner and slightly heavier muscled than those not forced to exercise. But what about factors that influence carcass quality and, ultimately, palatability?

It is estimated that dark-cutting meat costs the beef industry approximately $132 million annually. The primary cause of dark-cutting meat is pre-slaughter depletion of muscle glycogen, such as that which occurs when sheep are chased to exhaustion. Glycogen is a polymerized form of glucose, some of which is stored in muscle cells (the rest is stored primarily in liver cells). It is a significant source of energy for working muscles in sheep. During prolonged exercise, sufficient glycogen is mobilized from the working muscles to deplete the muscle glycogen supply, forcing energy to be derived from other sources.

In an attempt to replicate the "dark-cutting" condition in lambs, researchers at Kansas State University subjected Suffolk wethers to forced exercise on a treadmill at one of three speeds. After a training period, lambs were exercised on a treadmill at 3.5, 4.5, or 5.5 miles per hour on a nine-degree incline for 10 minutes, then at 2.5 miles per hour for 10 minutes on no incline. After the 10-minute walk, lambs were immediately transported about .75 mile and slaughtered. Previous research showed that lambs exercised on a treadmill at 4.5 miles per hour on a nine-degree incline reached exhaustion, on average, at eight minutes.

Physiological changes resulting from treadmill exercise included increased heart rate and increased concentrations of cortisol, ACTH, glucose, and lactate. Following slaughter, however, there was no difference due to treadmill exercise on muscle pH, muscle glycogen content, or muscle color compared with controls. Therefore, treadmill speeds and duration of exercise used in this study were not sufficient to result in dark-cutting carcasses. Previous research with sheep indicated that there may need to be couple emotional stress (e.g., fright from being chased by a dog) with prolonged exercise in order to yield dark-cutting carcasses. Thus, steeper incline, greater speed, or longer duration, and (or) an emotional stressor may be needed to yield dark-cutting lamb carcasses.

In any event, too much exercise for lambs can have long-lasting detrimental effects on carcass quality.

Effect Of Feed Withdrawal On Carcass And Gut Weight
Kenneth B. Kephart
Assoc. Prof. Animal Science
Penn State

Nearly all of the pigs currently purchased by Hatfield Quality Meats are bought on a carcass weight basis. Only part of the feed consumed by the pig during the last 24 hours before slaughter is reflected in the carcass weight, with some undigested feed remaining in the gut. Economically, it may be advantageous for the producer to allow the hogs to empty the feeders for a period of time before marketing. Potentially, feed cost during the last 24 hours would be reduced, with no change in carcass value. Further, the gut weight should be less, making the slaughter process easier and less risky in terms of nicking a gut and contaminating the carcass with bacteria.

A series of studies was recently initiated with the following objectives:

- Determine if gut fill can be consistently reduced by withholding feed for a period of time prior to slaughter.
- Determine the optimum withholding period that would result in a maximal carcass weight and a minimal gut weight.

In our first study, 80 pigs were weighed, tagged and tattooed, and divided into four pens three weeks before marketing. The pigs were weighed again the day before marketing, and two pens were randomly selected as full-fed pens; the other two served as fasted pens. Pigs in the full-fed pens had access to feed until they were loaded on the truck. Pigs in the fasted pens had access to feed until 14 hours before they were loaded on the truck. Both groups were transported for five hours and given a one-hour rest at the packing plant before slaughter. Total fasting time was six hours for the full-fed group and 20 hours for the fasted group. Feed intake was recorded for the last 24 hours before marketing.

Please see table below.

Under the conditions of this study, the fasted pigs suffered no carcass weight loss. The savings in feed cost under current market prices represented over 30¢ per pig. The change in gut weight, while statistically significant, was small in real terms.

Future studies will be needed with both shorter and longer fasting times. In addition, this experiment included all pigs in a pen. Under commercial conditions, pigs do not reach market weight on the same day, so pigs leave the pen over a period of days or weeks. Pigs that are not marketed would be subjected to intermittent fasting during the last days before marketing. Whether these pigs would experience any change in performance is unknown.

Electronic ID For Sow Feeding And Heat Detection
Keith A. Bryan
Instructor Dairy and Animal Science Penn State

Electronic animal identification has been widely publicized in the past few years, including the use of sow-feeding stations for group-housed females. Most of these studies have been conducted in modern confinement swine facilities and, to a much lesser extent, in non-confinement facilities. A recent investigation at Kansas State University evaluated the feasibility of using a Porcode® electronic sow-feeding station for feeding and estrus detection of sows and gilts housed in outside lots.

Thirty days after mating, gilts were assigned to one of two outside lots where they were fed either once a day manually with a feed scoop or were fitted with a neck collar for use with an electronic feeding station. Gilts received 4.25 pounds of feed daily.

In the second study, sows and gilts were used to determine the efficacy of using a modified electronic feeding station to determine the onset of standing heat. The feeding station was located next to a pen that housed a mature boar. When a sow or gilt with a transponder collar visited the area near the boar, no feed was delivered, but the time spent in the general vicinity was recorded.

Collar loss was the only limitation noted in the study. This was more prevalent for gilts than for sows, and most apparent during the first two weeks of the experiment. One consideration was weight loss of gilts during the adaptation period. However, both electronically and manually fed gilts had the same weight and backfat thickness after the training period and immediately prior to farrowing. There was no difference due to type of feed-delivery system on number of gilts farrowing, number of pigs farrowed, litter weight at birth, or number of pigs born alive. Therefore, electronic feeding stations can be used effectively for feeding gestating gilts in outside lots after day 30 of gestation.

In the second study, there was considerable variation in duration of boar visitation among sows. However, there was a strong relationship between boar visitation and standing heat. Sows and gilts were predicted to be in standing heat when boar visitation exceeded 4.4 and 9.3 minutes per day respectively. Based on these limits, 28 out of 29 sows (96.6 percent) visited the boar for more than 4.4 minutes on the first day of estrus, and 11 out of 14 gilts (78.6 percent) visited the boar for more than 9.3 minutes on the first day of estrus. There was more variability among gilts compared with sows for duration of visitation.

Therefore, electronic animal identification of sows and gilts for feeding estrus detection is feasible in outside lots. This technology may permit increased use of artificial insemination of replacement gilts. Furthermore, use of this technology may permit selection of replacement gilts based on age at puberty. Additional refinement of this technology may yield management strategies that are currently unavailable in modern swine production systems, particularly in non-confinement systems.

Harvester Dreamland Held

HOOKSTOWN (Beaver Co.) — The 5th Annual National and Worldwide International Harvester Collectors Red Power Round-Up, which was hosted by the Beaver Valley Antique Equipment & Crafts Association, Inc., here, was held in conjunction with the 11th annual show of the Beaver Valley Antique Equipment and Crafts Association, Inc.

There were exhibitors and vendors from Canada to Florida at the "Harvester Dreamland." The equipment exhibited was tractors (303), engines (44), implements (25), vehicles (23), and miscellaneous items (43). Also displayed were "IHC" exhibits of original owners manuals, refrigerator, memorabilia, toys, hats, uniforms, signs, cookie cutters, pedal tractors and various other items.

A number of very unusual models were available for viewing by the spectators. Approximately 6,000 people came through the gates.

The opening ceremonies were conducted by Beaver Valley Antique Equipment and Crafts Association. On Saturday, Clyde Berkshire, National "IHC" president of Royal Center, Ind. and Bruce Richards of Stouffeill, Ontario, Canada raised the flags while the Canadian Anthem "O Canada" and the American Anthem "Star Spangled Banner" were played, after which the flags were lowered to half-mast in a memorial of Flight 427, followed by a moment of silence. The crash of US Air Flight 427 occurred within 15 miles of the showgrounds.

Saturday morning the IHC feature-only parade was held. The parade was approximately two hours long, with quite a bit of information given about the equipment from the owners. The parade ended with Andrew Bolan of Berkshire, England driving a Model B-414 IHC tractor owned by Myron Elliott of Hookstown. This tractor was manufactured in Yorkshire, England, by IHC. The plant is still in operation.

The National International Harvester Collectors Association operated a table of information in the IH arena. They had information available and signed up several new members. There were also several chapters set up with displays to promote their chapter. Preceding the start of the annual membership meeting. Roger Javens, supervisor, presented a proclamation to Mike Androvich, National IHC president and Jim Shutt, president of Western Pennsylvania chapter of IHC. The proclamation declared the week, September 12 through 18, 1994 as "Red Power" week in Beaver County, Pennsylvania.

During the annual meeting of IHC, three new chapters were recognized. They were Minnesota, western Pennsylvania, and central Pennsylvania. This brings to 17 the number of chapters of the IHC Club.

The western Pennsylvania chapter was formed as a result of having the 5th Annual Red Power Round-Up. The Central Hawkeye Gas Engine and Tractor Association, Inc., and the Iowa chapter of IHC manned a booth giving out information on the 6th Annual Red Power Round-Up to be held near Waukee, Iowa, July 21-23, 1995. Also, Indiana chapter of IHC had a very interesting booth with information on the winter convention to be held March 3-5 in Fort Wayne, Ind.

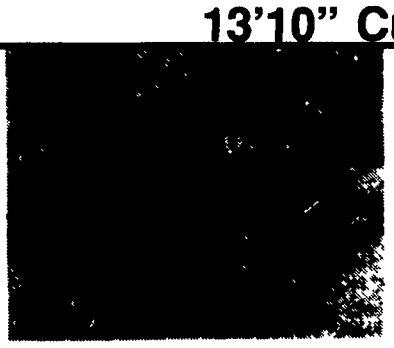
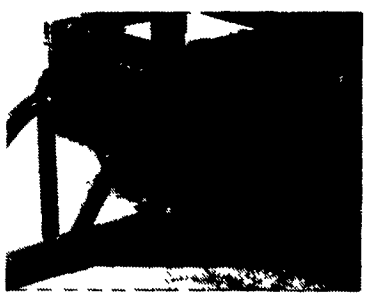
For Fall Seeding See Binkley & Hurst Bros. Now For A New 13'10" Culti-Mulcher In Stock!

Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc. Has A Culti-Mulcher With Quality Features



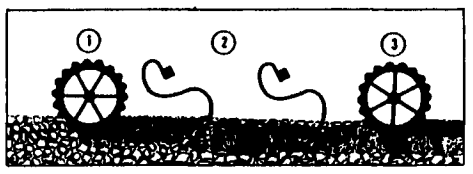


Weight Transfer is needed on some fields for best mulching results. Unique Farmhand system allows weight to be distributed between the front and rear rollers and the draw bar as needed.

Bearings on torsion-mounted hangers and roller tool bars combine with split roller axles to isolate shock loads. Up to 12 triple-lip sealed, self-aligning ball bearings are used on the main frame of each machine.

Complete Seedbed Preparation in One Pass

Here is how Farmhand Mulchers prepare perfect seedbeds in a single pass. (1) Surface clods are crushed into small particles by the front rollers (2) Buried clods are then brought to the surface by two rows of looped "C" tines or Danish vibrating tines (3) The rear set of rollers crumbles these clods, firms the seedbed, presses out the air pockets and leaves a fine seedbed for planting.



Mulching Makes You Money

Mulching your soil gives you better yields in two ways. First, loosely packed seedbeds with many clods allow moisture to evaporate quickly through the air pockets. Lost moisture reduces the speed of germination and gives your crops a less efficient start. Mulching creates a finer, clod-free seedbed with few air pockets and gives your crop a uniform start throughout the field. Moisture rises at just the right rate from the water table below to the seedbed.

Secondly, the small roots of sprouting seeds need a ready supply of soil nutrients. Feeder root systems of small plants in poorly prepared seedbeds cannot break through the clods and reach out for nourishment. Mulched soil allows the feeder roots to reach out in all directions. Thus, nourishment flows through the roots to build strong, fast-growing plants that give you better yields.

It Takes A Sunflower Ripper To Take This Type Of Punishment, So Buy Heavy Duty Tillage, Buy Sunflower And A New Case IH Magnum Tractor From Binkley & Hurst For Outstanding Performance

Sunflower Tillage ("The Best") From Binkley & Hurst Bros. Now!

This series of photos shows a deep-tillage device called a V-ripper as it digs 15-inches into the soil to loosen the hard-packed soil. In hay for more than 25 years, the field was used for many years as a parking lot at Ag Progress. Over the years, during dry and wet conditions, cars and other equipment packed the soil, inherently full of rocks and clay, which help contribute to compaction. Also called a subsoiler, the V-ripper breaks up the lower layers of topsoil and the subsoil to allow for better plant root growth.

Once A Parking Lot, Now A Deeply Tilled Field By Binkley & Hurst Bros. Heavy Duty Sunflower Tillage Equipment And Case IH Magnum Tractors All Sold And Serviced By Binkley & Hurst Your Dealer For Heavy Duty Equipment

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Once upon a time, they needed a place to put cars. So they used a hay field.

The hay field, you see, goes back, way back, to a time before tons of cars and equipment were invited onto it, in conditions rainy and dry, to pack it down.

Its usefulness as a parking lot sserved well, but for growing crops, well, that was in question. It was solid hardpan. Dusty and rocky. Nearly unfit for farming.

Until a deep tiller, what tillage experts call a "V-ripper," arrived one day.

Despite the rocks, clay, hard-pan, and dry, dry soil, the V-ripper did its job, and dug down deep — 15 inches deep, to be exact. The subsoiler helped loosen and dislodge the compaction layer so harmful to good root growth and overall crop condition.

The photos here depict the "V-ripper" at work during a special deep tillage demonstration on Tuesday afternoon at Ag Progress Days.

Whether you are concerned about SOIL COMPACTION or RESIDUE MANAGEMENT

DMI

ECOLOTIL TILLAGE SYSTEMS Solve Your Problems!!!

DMI's Patented Point Makes The Difference

ECOLOTIL SYSTEMS

DMI SYSTEM	Min. HP Required
3 Shank Ecolotil	80
5 Shank Ecolotil	130
527 Ecolotiger	130
530 Ecolotiger	170
703 Ecolotiger	250

Each of these machines can be equipped to meet your particular needs. Your choices include shank style, shank arrangement, coulters/ discs, rear levelers or point style.

Soil Compaction is a problem on every farm we've checked. Breaking up the compaction layer

1) decreases soil run-off in wet years, by permitting water to percolate into the subsoil

2) makes room for plant roots systems to seek and find moisture in dry years

We redesigned the GLEANER® rotary from header to spreader with fewer moving belts and chains. So you get greater reliability and reduced maintenance during harvest. And now, three of four models* offer you an engine choice — a high torque rise Cummins diesel or a low maintenance air-cooled Deutz, both loaded with power to spare. Check out the combine that's built for greater reliability and backed by a strong AGCO warranty and superior service — the GLEANER rotary. Visit your local AGCO GLEANER dealer today. And ask about flexible AGCO financing.

* R72 available with Deutz air-cooled engine only

Purina Calf Startena®

Assurance that the dairy replacement heifer will reach her full potential.

For over 50 years the leader – but never more so than today.

When Purina introduced Calf Startena back in the 1930's, it was widely recognized as the most advanced calf starter every made up to that time. Over the years, Startena has changed dramatically as researchers have discovered new information about the calf's digestive system, the onset of rumen changes, and nutritional requirements for proper rumen wall development.

WHY NO HAY

Since 1949, Purina researchers have recommended against feeding hay (or any other forage) to calves under two months of age. For years, this "no hay" premise was in dispute, but today most nutritionists agree. However, many dairy operations still include hay in their feeding programs, even though tests show it is an unwise practice.

Performance of Dairy Calves On Hay vs. No Hay Regimens

	Hay (Ad Lib)	No Hay
Total Weight Gain (lb)	58.20	69.50
Daily Intake Startena (lb)	1.71	2.10
Daily Intake Alfalfa Hay (lb)	.41	–

Duration of trials: 4 days to 2 months of age

An extra 11.3 pounds of gain, as averaged by calves that did not receive hay, is especially valuable in the early weeks.
